GERMANS REPORT KIEV ENCIRCLED

WALKOUTS TIE UP SHIPYARDS; NAVY TO ACT

GOVERNMENT READY TO TAKE DRASTIC MEASURES

(By The Associated Press)

Hints of drastic government action if necessary to keep shipyards in full production were thrown out by high officials yesterday (Thursday) after walkouts halted work at four east coast yards.

About 25,000 workers were affected by the disputes which involved the Kearny, N. J., yard of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company and three yards operated by Bethlehem Steel—two at Brooklyn and one at Staten Island, N. Y.

The walkouts at the two Brooklyn yards were shortlived. After a conference in the early afternoon with management representatives, officials of the CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Shipyard Workers ordered the 6,000 workers to go back to their job. However, the AFL Teamsters Union, also engaged in a controversy with the management, continued to picket the two yards as well as that at Staten Island.

May Send Troops

Defense officials in Washington made plain they were chiefly concerned over the CIO strike at the huge Kearny yard engaged on $493,000,000 of naval and merchant ship construction.

A spokesman said the navy dedepartment was watching the situation closely and an official of the defense mediation board indicated the case would be turned over to President Roosevelt if the 18,000 employes did not resume work soon.

The mediation board official would not elaborate, but it was recalled that troops were sent to reopen the North American Aviation Company's California plant when the mediation board advised the White House it was unable to settle the strike there.

Union officials said the walkouts at the Bethlehem yards were called to protest company "stalling" on contract negotiations. A spokesman added that the union asked that the hourly wage be increased from 78 cents to $1.03 for skilled workers.

Carpenters Mediate

Among other labor developments was settlement of a six-day strike of AFL carpenters at the $40,000,000 Plum Brook ordnance plant in Ohio. It was agreed to submit to the mediation board the Carpenters' request for an hourly rate of $1.37½, an increase of 25 cents. About 675 carpenters are involved.

About 100 employes of the Timken Roller Bearing Company, Canton, Ohio, walked out. CIO workers in the carburizing department of the company have demanded five cents increase in the current scale of 72½ to 82 cents an hour. The plant employs 7,000 and other departments were not affected.

In the New London, Conn., area, AFL painters on government and private jobs quit work and said they would remain on "vacation" until their pay was raised from $1 to $1.25 an hour. About 150 had been employed at the navy's Groton submarine base, at two defense housing projects and on private jobs.

CIO Stages Slowdowns

A work stoppage by a small group of CIO die casters held up work by 1,785 others in an Aluminum Company of America plant in Cleveland. CIO spokesmen said they were protesting the presence of an AFL organizer in the plant. The management said CIO slowdowns had affected work in sever-

Marquette's Murder Manhunt Ends When Youth, 22, Confesses

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 7. (AP)—An intensive four-day search by city police for the killer of Peter Girard, 55, was climaxed early this morning by the arrest of Robert Edwin O'Neil, 22, who made a full confession of the murder and pleaded guilty before Judge Frank A. Bell, of Negaunee, in a special session of Marquette county circuit court.

Judge Bell deferred sentence pending the usual pre-sentence investigation. O'Neil, following detailed confession of the crime, committed early last Sunday morning, took officers to the scene of the assault, and explained how he beat Girard senseless and robbed him of $10.11.

He said he beat his victim with his fists until he was unconscious, then took the money. He told officers he was about to leave when he heard Girard groan. "When I heard him groan," he said, "I went back and beat him again."

O'Neil, who is being held in the county jail pending sentence by Judge Bell, was arrested by state police on June 16 on a charge of felonious assault. Following his arraignment in municipal court here, he was released under $500 bond to await arraignment in circuit court.

O'Neil's arrest and confession early this morning came as an unexpected climax to Marquette's first man-hunt in more than 15 years. City police, headed by Chief Donald McCormick, and state police, headed by Detective James Smith, with the cooperation of Sheriff Howard Treado, had been working on the case day and night since the murder victim's body was found, but apparent lack of clues led to speculation that early solution of the case was unlikely.

O'Neil, arraigned before Judge John Siegel in municipal court at 10:30 a. m., waived examination and requested immediate disposal of his case. Prosecutor John Voelker arraigned him before Judge Bell a half hour later.

Girard was last seen alive about midnight Saturday when he left a downtown tavern. Coroner Marvin Fassbender estimated he had been dead from 12 to 18 hours when his body was found about 3:45 p. m. Sunday, near the waterfront.

O'Neil denied he used anything except his fists in beating the man, but an examination by Coroner Marvin Fassbender and a post mortem disclosed that Girard's skull was fractured in several places, his upper and lower jaws broken and his left eye badly swollen. After making his initial examination, Fassbender ruled out the possibility that Girard had been hit by a train and asserted it definitely was a murder case.

THAILAND'S AID HINGES ON U. S.

British Want More Than Economic Blockade From America

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

London, Aug. 17.—The extent of British military aid to Thailand in case that little country is attacked by Japanese forces massed in neighboring Indo-China will be governed by the willingness of the United States to co-operate with action stronger than economic blockades, it was stated authoritatively today.

Moreover, it was added that this policy for a collaboration beyond both diplomatic and economic measures applies not only to Thailand, but to the whole of the Far East.

Burma Road Menaced

Thailand itself is expected by the British to fight if invaded, but British informants are not able to see such resistance in an optimistic light. The Thai air force, it is felt here, would worry the Japanese and the Thai army could offer only brief, though spirited, resistance.

Japan's probable alternative to military invasion, which would put Japanese troops on the frontiers of British Burma and the Malay states above Singapore, was said here to be infiltration by "tourists" and economic domination on the German pattern.

While British diplomatic quarters seek to avoid mention of British military measures, dispatches from Singapore indicated the imperial forces were preparing for any Japanese thrust in Thailand.

The Singapore office of the ministry of information said these dispatches, declared that in both

DAYLIGHT RAIDS STAGED BY RAF

German Airdrome Near St. Omer Bombed; 10 Planes Lost

(By The Associated Press)

London, Aug. 7—The RAF bombed a German airdrome near St. Omer, France, German shipping and other targets near Gravelines today in two daylight offensive sweeps which cost Britain 10 fighter planes and the Nazis four, the air ministry announced. No bombers were lost.

(German accounts said the RAF lost 24 planes in the channel area Thursday up to 10 p. m.

The day's assaults followed last night's storm-defying raid on northwest German industrial centers, during which a British bomber shot down a Junkers 88 officially described as a Nazi night fighter. The twin-engined Junkers 88 originally was designed as a dive bomber, but the Germans seem to have converted it to a night fighter similar to the British Havoc, also originally a bomber.

The air ministry said the overnight attacks were made by giant bombers which bored through snow, sleet and electrical storms to reach Mannheim, Frankfurt and Karlsruhe.

In all three cities many fires sprang up as the bombs fell, RAF pilots said.

JAPANESE CAN'T TRUST RUSSIANS

Soviet Ambassador Has Conference With Tokyo Official

Tokyo, Aug. 7, (AP)—Increasing concern over Japanese-Russian relations was indicated today by the fact Soviet Ambassador Constantin Smetanin held his third conference in as many days with a member of the Japanese government.

This time he talked half an hour with Vice Admiral Seizo Sakonji, the minister of commerce and industry and a former president of the Northern Sakhalin Oil company.

Sahkalin, an island off Siberia, is half Japanese and half Russian and the two countries almost fought in July, 1939, over Moscow's alleged intention to confiscate Japanese oil and coal properties there.

Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye saw the emperor for the second successive day to report on state affairs. The premier conferred, too, with Marquis Koichi Kido, the lord keeper of the privy seal.

Girl Found With Bullet In Chest, No Doctor's Care

Detroit, Aug. 7 (AP)—June Mottarshaw, 17, was in critical condition with a bullet wound in her chest today, and police who investigated said she apparently had been alone at her home since Tuesday without medical care.

Detective Earl Anderson said the girl told officers she was wounded accidentally Tuesday afternoon while handling a pistol she found in the house. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Mottarshaw, were said to be vacationing in Canada.

Diamond Tooth Jim Sentenced For Dope

Detroit, Aug. 7. (AP)—Federal Judge Ernest A. O'Brien today sentenced Joseph Russelli, 42, the man who wears his diamonds in his teeth, to eight years in prison and fined him $1,000 for possession of dope. He pleaded guilty.

Russelli claims the three diamonds which he paid $100 to have imbedded in his front teeth 10 years ago are worth $3,000. He is known as "Diamond Jim."

SENATE VOTES THIRTY-MONTH ARMY SERVICE

TRAINEE EXTENSION MEASURE SENT TO HOUSE

BY RICHARD L. TURNER

Washington, Aug. 7 (AP)—The senate tonight approved legislation prolonging the active service of draftees, militiamen, reservists and army enlisted men by 18 months with a pay raise of ten dollars a month for all men after they have completed one year in the army.

The bill, hotly disputed for more than a week, went through by a vote of 45 to 30, and now goes to the house where its fate is uncertain. Many house members are reported to favor a less drastic extension of service than the 18 months provided in the senate measure.

Pay Raise Provided

Until the last minute, administration forces were in secure command of the situation. After defeating proposals for a six-month and a 12-month extension, they obtained approval today of the 18-month period by a vote of 44 to 28.

But then, just before the final ballot, the senate disregarded the desires of the Democratic leadership and wrote in an amendment providing for the $10 monthly pay raise after a year of service. (The present basic pay is $30).

The amendment, offered by Senator Mead (D-N. Y.) was adopted 39 to 34. Just previously an amendment by Senator Johnson (D-Colo.), calling for a 25 per cent pay increase, was rejected 37 to 36.

May Be Retroactive

There were some questions as to the effect of the Mead amendment. Some war department attorneys expressed the opinion that as it passed the senate it provided for retroactive increases for men who have already completed more than one year's service in the army.

For example, it was felt that an army old-timer who had been in service for 20 years might be entitled to back pay at the rate of $10 a month, for 19 years.

However, the attorneys indicated that such was not the real intent of Senator Mead. There were indications that the amendment might be redrafted, if not deleted altogether, in the house.

The pay increase was written into the bill with so little advance discussion that there was no immediate word as to the reaction of the war and treasury departments.

Cash Bonus Doubled

It was apparent, however, that it would alter the army's present budget plans and necessitate an additional appropriation if it should become law.

The war department reported only that the expanding army now numbered 1,531,800 officers and men, including 669,500 selective service trainees.

Assuming that 1,500,000 men would receive non-retroactive pay raises, the cost would be $15,000,000 a month, or $180,000,000 a year.

With the draft extension out of the way the senate completed congressional action on two other defense measures by accepting amendments of the house to bills previously passed by the senate.

Most important of these was a bill revising conditions for reenlistments in the navy, coast

SILK STOCKING TIE-UP STUDIED

Use of Rayon and Other Fibers Make Technical Difficulties

Washington, Aug. 7, (AP)—The problem of shifting the silk hosiery industry to rayon and other fibers was explored today by manufacturers, labor leaders and government officials, but no answers were obtained to many of the puzzling technical questions involved. The discussions will be resumed tomorrow.

Some shift is necessary due to the cessation of silk imports.

A representative of the Dupont company, which manufactures nylon, a synthetic fiber, said that the company had removed limitations on the use of nylon in combination with other fibers.

Officials said this would help relieve shortages. The use of nylon along with other fibers, they said, would increase greatly the number of pairs of hosiery that could be made with present supplies.

Shortage Predicted In Aviation Gasoline

Washington, Aug. 7 (AP)—The mounting demands of embattled Britain and Russia, combined with the expansion of America's air force, brought from Secretary Ickes today a warning that the United States faces a possible shortage of vital aviation gasoline.

Only by quickly increasing high octane refining capacity, he said, could this threat to the flying forces be erased, and he declared remedial steps were being considered.

The interior secretary, who is also defense petroleum co-ordinator, disclosed at his press conference that four American tankers plying west coast waters were being turned over to Russia, to increase the flow of aviation fuel to the Soviets.

Such transfer of tankers, he said, might cause a scarcity of petroleum in Pacific coast areas but he added the "pinch" there probably would not approach in severity the shortage predicted for the Atlantic seaboard.

For the east, where transfer of American tank ships to British service brought a petroleum emergency, Ickes told newsmen he had "in mind" two or three plans for compulsory curtailment of gasoline, possibly by card rationing, if the voluntary conservation program failed. The co-ordinator expressed keen disappointment at the measure of cooperation shown by eastern motorists in response to appeals for a sharp cut in motor fuel consumption.

Deliveries of gasoline to service stations increased last week 1,029,866 gallons over the previous week, he said. This report was for the two weeks prior to inauguration of the curfew for filling stations.

FRENCH STAND NOT CLEAR YET

America Asks Assurances Territory Will Be Kept From Axis

Washington, Aug. 7 (AP)—The United States withheld full acceptances of assurances from the Vichy government today until it was clear the French were as determined to protect their territory from the axis as from the British.

Secretary of State Hull said he had received a French note which was substantially along the lines indicated unofficially in Vichy. The note was reported to have said France was determined to defend its empire in its own way.

Hull appeared to regard the assurances as somewhat encouraging but not sufficiently final to relieve all concern here over the French territories.

Before classing the note as definitely satisfactory, he said he wanted to know more about what was going on in Vichy. Things move so fast, he said, and more or less foggily in some localities that it is important to see the general trend of conditions before discussing them finally.

Internal political struggle among various elements in France made some quarters uncertain whether the Vichy assurances would have long-binding effect. Hull's remarks indicated the American government still was more concerned with Vichy's acts than with its promises.

Collision Kills 3 In One Plane, Other Makes Field Safely

St. Charles, Mo., Aug. 7 (AP)—A flying instructor and a student pilot were killed today when their plane crashed after a collision 400 feet in the air with another plane which was landed safely.

The dead:

Harold V. Knapp, 22, the instructor, who moved to St. Louis recently from Covert, Mich.

Anthony Detomatis, 25, Collinsville, Ill.

Ellis W. Smith, 22, Pattonville, Mo. managed to land at an auxiliary field nearby although the lower left wing of his biplane was ripped, apparently by the propellor of the two-seat cabin monoplane in which the instructor and student were flying.

Thanksgiving Day Nov. 20 This Year

Lansing, Aug. 7 (AP)—Michigan's Thanksgiving Day this year will be observed November 20 by designation of Governor Van Wagoner, the executive office indicated today.

The governor was expected to follow President Roosevelt's decision to observe the earlier date this year and return to the last Thursday in November next year.

The president previously announced he was unable to return to the later date this year because calendars for the November 20 observance already had been printed.

SON OF IL DUCE IN FATAL CRASH

Bruno Mussolini Killed In Bomber Wreck With Two Other Fliers

Rome, Aug. 7 (AP)—Bruno Mussolini, second son of the Duce, perished today in the wreck of a new four-motored bomber he was testing in his third war. It was death at the age of 23 for one who, in the creed of his father, had "lived dangerously" since he was a little boy.

With Captain Bruno at the controls as squadron commander, the new plane, which possibly was to be used by the squadron against Russia, crashed near the airport on San Jiusto at Pisa. Two others of the crew were killed and five were injured.

Bruno had flown under fire in the wars in Ethiopia, in Spain, and in the present great conflict.

Bruno was married in 1938 to Gina Ruberti, and they had one daughter, Marina, now 17 months old.

Besides Vittorio, who is 24, he had another brother, Romano, 13, and two sisters, the present Countess Ciano, 30, and Anna Maria, 11.

Way To Moscow Blocked; Hitler Shifts To South

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

The latest chapter in Hitler's amazing story of Russian armies destroyed fails to furnish convincing evidence of smashing German victories, but it may explain why the main Nazi attack has shifted southward toward the Ukraine.

It is not yet clear whether the Russians still hold the great bend of the Dnieper—the Orsha-Smolensk-Mogilev triangle. If they do the Germans' chances of pressing on toward Moscow are not bright. It may have been tough going there that led the Germans to make a radical change in their plans and strike southward below Kiev at Red armies holding the Black Sea flank.

Defenders Hold River

The German radio has broadcast a report that Kiev is already encircled. Intimations from Berlin that Hitler has gone to the Ukraine front, southwest of Kiev, bear out his declaration that a turning movement via Byelawa Tserkov to sweep the region between the Dnieper and the Dniester to the Black Sea is in progress. It also serves to throw light on the Nazis' failure to widen their boasted gains in the Smolensk area.

The most recent Hitler bulletin told of German advances on a wide front on both sides of the Orsha-Smolensk road. If that refers to the railroad, however, it implies the Russians still hold the south bank of the Dnieper from Smolensk to Orsha and the east bank from Orsha to Mogilev. The railroad is north of the river between Orsha and Smolensk.

Gateway Opened

For weeks that Mogilev-Orsha-Smolensk river bastion has been the main obstacle to the German advance on Moscow. It sharply limited the strategic value of the Nazi break-through from Vitebsk to Smolensk and further east along the Moscow railroad. Red forces holding the great river bend were on the flank of the Nazis' most advanced salient.

If it has not been cleared, a successful major attack on Moscow seems impossible. If the Hitler bulletin means Red forces in the bend have been routed or destroyed, a gateway to Moscow 100 miles wide has been opened through the Stalin line between Vitebsk and Mogilev. If that were so the Germans would hardly forego such an opportunity of dealing new and punishing blows in the vital center.

YOUTHS DROWN IN GRAVEL PIT

Two Brothers Victims of Water Tragedy At Indian Point

Nahma, Aug. 7 — George Smith, 18, and Charles Smith, 12 or 13 years of age, negro brothers, were drowned while swimming in a deep gravel pit at Indian Point in Nahma township about 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Harold Shananquet, who was with the boys at the time of the tragedy and summoned officers, told the latter the older boy called for help while swimming. The younger Smith went to his brother's assistance, but both went down in the attempted rescue. Shananquet left and called the sheriff's office.

Both of the bodies had been removed from the pit—30 feet deep and about 150 by 200 feet in area—when Sheriff William E. Miron and Deputy Harold Johnston arrived at the scene of the tragedy. Ambrose Beaver and Andrew Wheaton removed one of the bodies from the pit, Wheaton and John Moses the other.

The sheriff's office received Shananquet's call at 5:55 p. m. Dr. Ware, Nahma, pronounced the young victims dead. Coroner Kevill Murphy viewed the bodies.

The boys were the sons of Bessie Smith of Ensign, a widow. The bodies were taken to the Anderson funeral home.

Patrols In Atlantic Cut British Losses

London, Aug. 7. (AP)—First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander disclosed tonight convoys, planes and patrols in the North Atlantic had cut July British shipping losses to the lowest in more than a year.

Although Alexander did not give specific figures, he declared "The Month of July is the best we have had since I have been at the admiralty." He took office with the Churchill government May 12, 1940.

Previously the lowest month under Alexander was January, 1941, when 306,002 tons of British, allied and neutral shipping were sunk. June, 1941, was the next lowest with 329,296.

SOVIETS CALL NAZI BOASTS 'FAIRY TALES'

RED ARMIES HOLD THEIR OWN, SAYS MOSCOW

(By The Associated Press)

Berlin, Aug. 7—The German radio tonight broadcast a report from the Russian front that German troops had encircled Kiev, the industrial capital of the rich Soviet Ukraine.

The dispatch, from a propaganda company of journalist reporters which travels in the front lines, said infantry units now had reached the most advanced lines of Panzer troops, which were said to have approached within 12 miles of Kiev some time ago.

It did not say specifically how tight the reported circle was drawn.

The high command contended yesterday the Germans have driven a wedge at the gates of Kiev.

DNB reports had declared Russian troops surrounded in the Kie vregion faced destruction after failing in repeated attempts to break through the German traps.

Germany's high command recounted at length today the past phases of the battle of Smolensk and again listed Russian manpower losses in six figures, but kept its silence on what the reported victory cost the Germans or precisely how it will weigh in the scales of this bloodiest of all Nazi campaigns.

LOSSES ARE LISTED

Moscow, Friday, Aug. 8, (AP)—The German army that overran most of Europe before tackling huge Soviet forces now has lost more than 1,500,000 men to Russia's 600,000, and the Red army still is savagely holding its own on all battlefronts, the Soviets announced today.

German official claims the Russians had lost 895,000 prisoners and many times that figure in dead and wounded were termed "Arabian fairy tales" designed to bolster falling morale within the reich.

People Not Told

The communique said it was significant the German people thus far had not been told how many Nazi troops were slain on the plains of Russia.

It set forth this table of material losses for both sides:

Tanks destroyed or captured: 6,000 German to 5,000 Russian.

Artillery destroyed or captured: 8,000 German to 7,000 Russian.

Planes destroyed or captured: 6,000 German to 4,000 Russian.

In Berlin Wednesday the Germans announced Soviet losses totaled 13,145 tanks, 10,388 guns and 9,082 planes. The Soviets said these figures were "fantastic."

The Russians said their armies still were fighting grimly well out in front of Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev. The sectors named, Kakisalmi, Kholm, Smolensk and Bel-Tserkov, all have been mentioned in previous communique.

Reservists Called In

The latest reports said Red troops still held at least part of strategic Smolensk, 230 miles west of here, despite attempts of German parachute troops and airborne light tanks to take it.

Increasing numbers of 45-year-old German reservists and 17-year old Nazi cadets have been thrown into the battle, sapping the manpower of Germany, the Soviets said.

As for German claims that the

Red air force no longer is a menace the communique said their planes continued to bomb German airdromes and mechanized units, and that 39 German planes were shot down Wednesday to a loss of 19 Red aircraft.

"The German high command's reports on the results of six weeks of war are Arabian fairy tales," the Soviet information bureau communique said.

It pictured the German people as plunged into "despondency and confusion" from reports penetrating Germany about tremendous losses at the front, from the food situation and from dislocation of German industry.

Propaganda Ridiculed

"Fascist propaganda endeavors by false reports of military operations on the eastern front to raise the spirit of German soldiers and population," it said.

"Concealing from the German population the real losses suffered by the German army in the war against the U. S. S. R., Hitlerite propaganda is treating the population to ridiculous nonsense."

It said the German command attempted to account for heavy losses and failure to advance quickly by creating a "legend of the existence of a powerful fortified Stalin line" wherever Germans met stiff resistance.

"However, no special 'Stalin line' ever existed or exists," the communique continued. "It was invented by the Germans to justify their tremendous losses."

Today's communique, telling how the Russian super-heavy tanks dealt smashing blows against the Germans in counterattacks along the swaying battlefront, declared the German 112th and 59th tank regiments of the 20th tank division had suffered serious losses under armored Red army assaults.

The army newspaper Red Star reported in addition the Soviet land battleships had attacked the rear of the German eighth tank division and destroyed a three-mile long column of 240 munitions trucks.

Guerrilla warriors also reported success in stalking German tanks.

Employment Hits High Peak In June

New York, Aug. 7 (AP)—Employment in the United States reached the highest peak in history in June, affording jobs to 53,120,000 workers, the National Industrial Conference Board estimated today in an employment survey.

This was 1,359,000 greater than the number employed in May and 6,193,000 above the figure for June, 1940. It was more than 5,000,000 ahead of the 1929 average, a big year for employment in the record books.

Unemployment, the conference board reported, dropped to 2,536,000 in June from 3,848,000 in May, reaching the lowest level since June, 1930.

Three Copper Mines In Upper Peninsula Menaced By Strikes

Detroit, Aug. 7. (AP)—Thomas J. Donahue, chairman of the state labor mediation board, said here today he was requesting Governor Van Wagoner to appoint a special mediation commission to act in a strike threat at three Upper Peninsula copper mines.

Notices of intent to strike were filed with the board Friday by representatives of the United Mine Workers (CIO) at the Quincy Mining Co., Hancock; the Copper Range Mining Co., Painesdale, and the Isle Royale Copper Co., Houghton.

Donahue said he was informed 2,200 workers would be involved.

The workers, he said, "are asking wage increases, and the mine owners say they cannot grant wage increases unless the government raises the price ceiling of 12 cents per pound on copper. I understand that a stoppage could affect the national defense effort."

Donahue said a 30-day "cooling off" period would be imposed by the board.

Bombers Seen As Real U. S. Menace

New York, Aug. 7, (AP)—Lieut. Col. George R. Hutchinson, who has been ferrying bombers to Britain for a year, told a Rotary club luncheon today that several hundred bombers could cross the ocean in 11 or 12 hours and drop enemy parachute troops on major eastern cities.

Having flown the Atlantic several times in both directions, Hutchinson said he was convinced as many as 10,000 troops could be dropped on strategic eastern airports, which are not protected by barrage balloons, air raid detectors or anti-aircraft batteries.

Hot Weather Holds Back Truck Crops

Lansing, Aug. 7, (AP)—M. L. Crowe, U. S. regional agriculture statistician, reported today that recent hot weather has retarded most of Michigan's truck crops.

He said peppermint, onion, snap bean and cabbage crops were especially affected by the dry spell and that it also was felt by tomatoes and celery.

Cantaloupes, however, are in a "thrifty" condition in Michigan and a fruit of high sugar content and excellent flavor is indicated, Crowe said.

Solons Clear Path For Final Vote On Property Seizures

Washington, Aug. 7 (AP)—Agreement by a joint senate-house committee cleared the way today for final congressional action on legislation which would authorize the president to requisition articles deemed needed in the defense program.

The bill had been passed previously by both houses in slightly different form and the compromise agreement must be approved by both before it can become law.

The legislation would authorize the president to take property and pay a "fair and just compensation" when there was an immediate need which would not admit of resort to another source of supply and after other means of obtaining the property upon "fair and reasonable terms" were exhausted.

The measure also would authorize requisitioning of any military or naval equipment, supplies, or munitions or machinery, tools or materials needed for manufacturing defense articles.

Berlin Threatens Iran Not To Expel German Nationals

New York, Aug. 7, (AP)—Representatives of both the NBC and CBS in Ankara, Turkey, reported tonight Germany has threatened to sever diplomatic relations with Iran (Persia) if the 2,500 German nationals in that country are expelled, a course which Britain has recommended.

The CBS representative, Farnsworth Powle, said in a broadcast that some German business men already were sending their wives and children out of Iran.

Martin Agronsky, NBC representative, said reliable diplomatic sources in Turkey informed him the British minister in Iran, in conjunction with the Russian government, has informed Iran Britain must insist on the expulsion of Germans.

Authoritative sources in London said they had no confirmation of a German note to Iran and declined to comment on the report Britain was insisting on expulsion of the Germans.

House Lacks Two Votes To Override Presidential Veto

Washington, Aug. 7, (AP)—By a hair-line vote the house today sustained President Roosevelt's veto of legislation which would have authorized $320,000,000 for defense highway purposes.

The official roll call vote was announced as 251 to 128, after several members had changed their votes, and it fell only 2 votes short of the two-thirds necessary to override the veto.

Senators voted yesterday 57 to 19 to override the veto, but today's house vote killed the legislation.

Michigan members voted as follows:

Democrats for: Hook, Lesinski, O'Brien, Tenerowicz.

Scores Overcome By Chlorine Gas From Leaky Pipe

Kearny, N. J., Aug. 7 (AP)—At least a score of persons were overcome tonight, two seriously, when chlorine fumes seeped from a break in a pipe outside the Standard Naphthalene Products company plant and felled persons over a quarter of a mile area.

Among the casualties were spectators at the picketed plant of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company one mile away, who saw the ambulances speeding to the scene and followed.

Sergeant Herbert Keller of the Kearny police said a leak developed in a feed pipe running into the plant.

The fumes, wafted across the Jersey meadows, struck down 12 men working in the Kearny yards of the Pennsylvania railroad, one-fourth mile away from the plant, located on South Jacobus avenue.

An emergency first aid station was set up on the scene before the victims were dispatched to hospitals in Jersey City, Kearny and Newark.

Michigan Oil Well Production Resumed

Mt. Pleasant, Mich., Aug. 7 (AP)—Production was resumed today at 600 wells of the Michigan Pure Oil company with signing of an agreement between the company and the Oil Field and Refinery Workers Union (AFL) ending a six-day strike.

The agreement provides for an election Friday to determine if Pure Oil employes wish to be represented by the union as sole bargaining agency.

Dolphins Wander North

Astoria, Ore. (UP)—Several dolphins, a specie of semi-tropical fish much prized by sport fishermen, have been caught off the Oregon coast. Vernon Brock, biologist for the Oregon fish commission, said the dolphins apparently wandered north from California waters.

Apparently the large gill surfaces of a tarpoon do not meet his oxygen requirements. He frequently rises to gulp air and stores in in a special tissue of his swimming bladder.

SENATE VOTES THIRTY-MONTH ARMY SERVICE

coast guard and marines to provide a $400 cash bonus for immediate re-enlistment, double the present bonus.

A second measure extended benefits of federal workmen's compensation laws to men employed on naval bases or other defense projects outside of the continental United States.

Solons Impatient

The end of the long battle over detaining draftees and others in service found the senate in an impatient mood. Shouts of "vote . . . . vote," loud, prolonged and insistent, greeted every member who arose to speak or to present an amendment.

For the most part the issue of keeping the draftees and others for periods longer than those for which they were inducted, turned upon the question whether the interests of the nation were imperilled.

Members of the bloc which has persistently opposed the Roosevelt foreign policy repeatedly argued that this was not the case, and that the country actually was in less danger—due to Germany's involvement in Russia—than it was a year ago when the original selective service law was enacted.

Supporters of the bill replied with a flat contradiction of those statements. Moreover they contended that to permit the selectees and others to leave the army at the end of their year of duty would result in the disintegration of the country's military forces in the face of danger from abroad.

Volunteers Also Affected

Originally, the measure, with President Roosevelt's approval, called for authority to hold the service men in the army indefinitely. As a compromise the 18-month time limitation was inserted by the military committee, with the backing of the administration floor leaders.

As the legislation went to the house, it provided that President Roosevelt could keep draftees, national guardsmen and reservists in service for a total of two and one-half years from the time of their induction. (They originally were inducted for one year.) The enlisted men volunteered for a period of three years, which would be increased to four and one-half.

To the very end of the debate the administration's opponents continued their barrage of criticism, both of the draft extension proposal, and of the Roosevelt foreign policy.

Senator Johnson (R-Calif.), whose opposition to any involvement in European affairs goes back to the memorable battle over the League of Nations, led off with an argument that to extend the service period would constitute a breach of faith.

Can't Trust Stalin

He said draftees and others were given to understand they would serve one year only when they were inducted, and that war department regulations virtually forbid the men to express their views on the issue. Then he asked:

"How can we break faith when the lips of these young men are sealed—padlocked—when they can only express their opinions by stealth, by writing to us who will not reveal their identity."

The Californian also criticized the American policy of assistance to Russia, saying it was impossible to trust Josef Stalin "a quarter of an inch beyond where you can see him," and added that if Russia should win:

"He would leave us as quickly as anyone on earth and be doing no wrong according to his philosophy at all. And his philosophy is to get what he can throughout the world and give nothing in return."

VANDENBERG VOTES NO

Washington, Aug. 7 (AP)—Arthur H. Vandenberg, Michigan's Republican senator, and Prentiss M. Brown, Democrat, voted against senate passage of legislation extending for 18 months the service periods of selectees, national guardsmen, reservists and regular enlisted men, and also voted against a minor amendment which would provide a $10 monthly pay increase for army personnel after completion of 12 months service.

They split when the senate approved the amendment limiting the extra military service of selectees, national guardsmen, reserves and regulars to eighteen months. Brown voted for the amendment and Vandenberg against it.

Report Of British Buying Sends Price Of Sugar Up Again

New York, Aug. 7 (AP)—Sugar for future delivery advanced for the fourth consecutive session today as the trade heard the staple was being purchased in larger quantities for shipment to Great Britain.

Strength also appeared in the cash market, where raw sugar advanced .05 cent to 3.75 a pound, the highest since 1939.

After the close of the market, it was announced in Washington that federal sugar price officials estimated a quotation of 3.75 cents a pound for raw sugar would be over the 110 per cent of parity ceiling which could be imposed under pending price control legislation.

A price of 3.70 cents would be "close to " 110 per cent of parity, it was added.

The British government was reported to have purchased around 100,000 tons or better of Cuban sugar at a price of around 1.75 cents, F. O. B. Cuba, for September-October delivery. This was the first big-scale purchase of the commodity to come to light in some time.

Draftees Over 28 Coming Home Soon

Lansing, Aug. 7, (AP)—Michigan draftees over 28 years of age may be returned to private life shortly, it was indicated today by the state selective service headquarters.

Lieut. Col. John I. Croshaw, head of inductions, said he was instructed by the Sixth Corps area headquarters at Chicago to estimate the number of men above 28 who had been drafted in the state.

Croshaw said an attempt apparently was underway to replace the older men with younger draftees as soon as it can be accomplished "conveniently." He estimated that a third of the Michigan draftees were 28 or older.

The men affected are those inducted before new selective service regulations deferring candidates over 28 were adopted.

Farmers Hold Up New Potatoes To Get Better Price

Bay City, Mich., Aug. 7. (AP)—Home-grown potatoes were withheld from the Saginaw and Bay county produce markets today by farmers until they obtain better prices.

Two spokesmen for the farmers, John Bublitz and Harold Meier, said the crop would be withheld until the price increases from current levels of 90 cents to $1 a hundredweight to $1.25 a hundredweight.

The labor department certified AFL electricians who contended Consolidated Edison Company had violated an agreement to employ only AFL members on installation of equipment at the company's new water street plant in New York City. The strike has been underway since July 29.

The department also certified to the board the strike of AFL Boilermakers at the Todd Galveston Dry Docks, Inc., Galveston, Tex., which began July 15 after a break-down in negotiation for a closed shop contract.

Phelps Dodge Will Reopen Pit Mines For Low Grade Ore

Morenci, Ariz., Aug. 7 (AP)—National defense and the demand for copper have influenced the Phelps Dodge corporation to begin production November 1 from its open pit mine here, located in one of the world's best known low grade copper ore areas.

G. C. Davis, assistant to the general manager, announced officially today production would begin two months ahead of schedule from the deposit which is expected to yield 5,000,000,000 pounds of copper in the next 30 years.

The ore, averaging 1.06 per cent copper, will be milled and smelted in one of the most modern reduction plants in the western hemisphere. Phelps Dodge will have spent approximately $40,000,000 when production begins.

Schools Get Full Slice Of Primary Funds This Year

Lansing, Aug. 7 (AP)—Improved treasury conditions this summer will permit payment in full of $12,469,905 of primary school interest money to school districts, Auditor General Vernon J. Brown declared today.

The sum, represented collections to July 1, will be distributed before August 31 and will represent about $9 per census child.

"After several years when it has been necessary to parcel out the primary school interest fund to conserve state treasury cash, the payment this year will represent the full amount collected to June 30, 1941," Brown said. "Another payment will be made after Nov. 1 when the second installment of railroad and utility taxes is due. It probably will amount to not less than $3 per school child."

Thailand's Aid Hinges On U. S.

British Burma and South China "all preparations are ready to smash any Japanese attempt to cut the Burma road (over which supplies move to the Chinese government) or move further westward."

Reserve here concerning Thailand also is in marked contrast with the statements of Australian leaders, who view that Dominion is concerned as deeply by Japanese moves as are Singapore and the Malay States themselves.

Australia Jittery

Many Australians here believe that unless a stronger policy is formed in London, Australia will begin to look to Pearl Harbor (the American Pacific base) rather than to Singapore for aid.

Bangkok dispatches stressed that Thailand would welcome assurances of the Anglo-American attitude, as it counter-balances the Japanese policy and aspirations.

The statement of U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull of increasing American concern over Japan's intentions toward Thailand was interpreted in Bangkok as stabilizing Thailand's position.

In Tokyo the Japanese board of information stated Japan wanted to maintain friendly relations with Thailand, and considered the Hull statement, and a similar and stronger one by the British, to be unwarranted.

Car Registrations Highest On Record

Detroit, Aug. 7 (AP)—R. L. Polk & Co. reported today new passenger car registrations for the first six months of this year totaled 2,467,281, highest on record.

The previous high mark was 2,155,357 in 1929.

New truck registrations of 390,114 units for the same period also topped all previous comparable periods. The previous high mark was 342,077 units in 1937.

Real Estate Values

Babson Selects the Good From the Bad

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Gloucester, Mass., August 8.—I am writing this column from my old home in Gloucester, Massachusetts, where I was born. This morning I walked out through the fields to a piece of land for which I once saw my grandfather pay $1,000 some fifty years ago. The family still owns the land which today would perhaps sell for $1,500. How much profit has the family gained?

Buy Productive Real Estate

Some would answer $500; but if what the family has paid for taxes and maintenance and lost in interest are considered (as they rightly should be) it is found that the family has lost $4,500. It costs nearly 10 percent a year to carry such property. This means that having produced no income, it has cost the family in taxes, maintenance, and compound interest about $5,000. The same thing applies to much property in the United States and Canada.

Hence, the first real estate rule is to own only property which carries itself. This means buy productive real estate and sell your unproductive real estate, gamble in real estate or farms. Buy such for use only. Moreover, except for a home or business, buy for cash only. Avoid unnecessary mortgages as you would smallpox. Debt has killed far more people than germs have killed!

What to Buy

The above refers to land. What about houses? Except for historical or family sentiment, avoid large houses and old houses. There are many cases where the owner would be much better off to pull them down and save taxes and maintenance. When pulling them down, to avoid accident liability, sell them to someone else for $100 and let him do the dismantling. Realize that a house should be "turned in" and destroyed after a certain number of years,—as well as an auto.

I believe in everyone owning his own home with enough land for a kitchen garden; but I'm not very keen for buying land or houses "just to rent". Much grief is connected with renting property. The owner always gets the worst end of the bargain; while the family who pays rent gets the best end. The depreciation is too great and no tenant is willing to pay for it.

Where to Buy

Every city—large or small—has a best street. This is the street which "down town" has the best stores and "up town" has the best homes. Every such city is also growing fastest in some one direction. Often it is westerly, but it may be in some one of the other three directions. Now, here is a good rule to follow when buying property:

Drive along this best street in the direction that the city is growing. Stop now and then and ask the price of land. So long as the price quoted is by the "front foot" or square foot" say "thank you" and drive along. When, however, you come to the first good location that quotes you by the "acre", stop and consider carefully. That may be the place to buy.

When to Buy

Today should be a good time to buy town property and even certain farm land. Many people are sick of their real estate investments. Rents are low and taxes are high. Mortgage money can now be secured at very low rates. Almost every bank has some foreclosed property which it is very anxious to sell. Real estate, as a whole, is now priced low.

Besides, the right kind of real estate should benefit from INFLATION which, to some extent, is surely ahead of us. Real estate is real property; it can't run away. In an emergency, it can feed, shelter, and almost clothe the family. It was the only investment which our forefather's had. It is fundamental.

What to Consider

Just as farm property should have fertile land—well drained, so house property should be built honestly and well insulated. Brick houses have a distinct advantage as an investment over wooden houses. Copper gutters and permanent roofing are to be desired. Remember when you buy, you, rather than the landlord, must pay the heavy maintence costs.

This especially applies to groves, orchards, and other farms of fruit properties. With a regular farm you can change the crops from year to year according to demands. Or you can reduce the acreage. This is not true of citrus groves, apple, peach, or pecan orchards and certain other agricultural "investments."

Good Land Makes Good Citizens

Ride through any street of your community and have a good look at the grounds around the houses. You can always pick out the houses in which owners live from those in which renters live. The houses and grounds which people own and live in are well cared for. Ownership makes good citizenship.

For any community to forge ahead and be a safe place to bring up children, it must have good churches, efficient schools, and civic leaders of high character. Communities of home owners have those essentials. Hence, the importance of encouraging home ownership and farm ownership.

What About Real Estate Securities?

One does not need buy the actual real estate in order to have a hedge against inflation. There are many good corporations with their securities listed in New York or Toronto which have valuable land holdings. I have in mind certain chemical companies, certain oil companies, certain sulphur and fertilizer companies, and certain steel, copper, and lead companies.

I am not recommending real estate companies which own only buildings. Avoid obsolescence,—especially in the case of hotels and apartment houses. Look to the land rather than to the buildings. Buildings decline in value with age; but well located land, which carries itself for taxes and interest, usually increases in value if bought right.

No Limit?

BOTH of Michigan's senators, Arthur H. Vandenberg and Prentiss Brown, on Wednesday, voted to limit the extension of military service for draftees, already inducted into the army and navy, to an additional year, beyond the twelve month period originally fixed. In spite of the non-partisan stand of Michigan's two senators, administration forces used the power at their control to defeat the proposal and authorities at Washington now expect that the extension of service will be set at 18 months, making necessary continuous service of two and a half years for all draftees.

But Senator Pepper, of Florida, who usually voices the sentiment of the "front office", during the debate on Wednesday, revealed that present legislation may be but a temporary arrangement, for the voiced the opinion it might be necessary to hold all present draftees in service for a period that may extend from five to ten years in the future.

Apparently the administration holds the votes and the power to fix the period of military service required of the youth of the nation at any measure of time desired by President Roosevelt and his advisors. The present international emergency must be accepted as valid excuse for any drastic action that may be recorded and under present conditions it will be impractical for any agency to offer effective opposition.

Lure for Industries

THE Council of State Governments has issued an interesting report of its survey of what states are doing to attract new industries.

The report makes the surprising disclosure that a large number of states in recent years have returned to the old practice of granting tax exemptions, plant facilities and other concessions to encourage new industries to locate within their domains.

Kentucky, Louisiana, Oklahoma and other states have used tax concessions. Plant facilities have been given in Rhode Island and Tennessee, and cash bonuses, it is revealed, have been given by some cities in Michigan to land factories. All together, 22 states have been found to offer some form of bait to new industries.

There is no denying that the South has seen marked industrial development in recent years. How much of this was due to the concessions offered by the states and communities, and not to natural economic advantages, is not shown in the report by the Council of State Governments.

Upper Peninsula communities have experimented with the offering of bait to new industries. In most instances, however, they were victimized by fly-by-night industrial promoters. The practice of giving tax exemptions, free power, buildings and other concessions to new industries is, after all, unfair to the old industries, who started on their own and have had to pay the full shot all the way. Maybe, it has worked all right elsewhere, but there is a sorry record for it in the Upper Peninsula communities just didn't do business with the right industrial promoters.

Culture for Nothing

AMERICA'S only free chautauqua will be held again this year under the auspices of the Nahma Vacation School for writers, artists and photographers at Nahma from Aug. 10 to 23.

The chautauqua will offer lectures and musical entertainment that compares favorably with the programs which the public pays to see at Bay View Assembly and other summer educational institutions. At Nahma, there will be talks on international affairs, literature, photography, music and art by outstanding authorities in their respective fields.

During the mornings and afternoons, the regular classes of the Nahma Vacation School are held. Only these persons who pay tuition are permitted to attend these classes, but the general public is invited to the free chautauqua programs to be held evenings at the Nahma community auditorium. Here is a chance for adults of this section to receive education at little or no expense.

The Nahma Vacation School is another integral unit of the persistent movement to promote the tourist business of this section. Already, the institution has been responsible for the Upper Peninsula's getting much valuable publicity, and more of it is in the offing. Folks of this section should get acquainted with this unique educational project.

The New Competition

SILK mills are now added to the plants that may have to shut down for lack of raw materials. The jobs of as many as 200,000 may be endangered in the auto industry if production is shut down 50 per cent because of lack of metals. Aluminum plants making kitchen ware, silverplating plants, face contraction, perhaps closing, for lack of their basic metals. Throughout smaller industries the pinch is felt.

Needless to say, the government is going to do all that it can to see that ways are found to keep these plants open, by giving them contracts for defense material, by reducing their supplies of metal and material as slowly as possible.

But the government can't guarantee to do this in every case. The defense program is a great national effort, and it comes first. It doesn't matter much whose fault it is that there is a shortage of certain basic materials. The fault, in any case, is probably spread widely over a great many people and factors. But it is a fact.

Face to face with the fact, what is American business going to do? It could whine and say, "The government is doing this to us, let the government find the way out." But business won't do that, if we know American business. It is not "the government" that is doing these things. It is the American people, acting through their government.

Director of Purchases Donald Nelson has made it clear that business, if it has not lost the aggressiveness that made it world famous, must do several things. First it must conserve such material as it has, and by ingenious use of substitutes, changes in design, reduction of unnecessary models, make it go as far as possible. Second, it must go aggressively after the government business that is and will be available. The Lord still helps those who help themselves, perhaps more emphatically so in abnormal times like these than in easy times.

The government market must be sold as aggressively as the competitive civilian market ever was.

Salesmen who used to go out in the market for orders in competition with one another may now find themselves in Washington or regional contract offices fighting for contracts. As usual, the prize will be to the swift, the aggressive, the adaptable.

That, at least, hasn't changed.

PRICE CONTROL FOR EVERYBODY

(Christian Science Monitor)

Everybody in the United States is for inflation control—for somebody else.

Everybody wants prices controlled — that is, the prices other people receive.

But not until more Americans are willing to accept, in the interests of defense, some over-all regulation of the prices and incomes they themselves receive will the threat of price inflation with its widespread injustice be lifted from shops and homes. Leon Henderson, Federal Price Administrator, has said candidly that compulsory price-control powers are imperative, but groups in Congress are wrestling with the task even of bringing forward a bill on the subject.

The bad effects of inflation have been enumerated often enough to be well known. Here are some of the results of skyrocketing prices:

They cause the buying power of money to shrink, so that many on fixed incomes are pinched and even if money wages rise their worth in goods and living declines.

They increase the Nation's cost for the enormous equipment of defense and hence add to the bill all will have to help pay after the war.

The discrepancy between a soldier's pay and high wages in civilian occupations makes recruiting difficult, causes resentment at the draft, and bases later demands for heavy pensions. x

All money on hand, as in savings accounts, social security funds, and other provisions against the future, loses some of its value or purchasing power.

"But why," asks the individual, "is it bad for me if I'm getting some of the increased prices prices or wages?"

The man who thinks he is getting rich from a war, whether contractor or wage earner, is almost never as well off as he supposes. The worker is tempted to indulge in extravagances, the farmer to speculate in land, the business man to expand unwisely. High prices and taxes take some of their gains, and if one apparently succeeds in profiteering at the expense of his fellow-citizens, the good-will item in his balance sheet is apt to suffer.

The purpose of price control is to help keep the stresses of war fairly spread. To be effective, regulation must apply to every classification of income—raw material prices, retail prices, farm prices, wages, rents, and so forth. Otherwise, any one major item, getting out of hand, will start a spiral which carries the others up with it.

Resistance to such all - inclusive price legislation is said to come principally from congressional blocs representing farm interests and organized labor. It is from farm prices and wage rates that the danger of inflation chiefly arises in this instance.

Agricultural prices, already greatly improved over a few years ago, have been pegged by Government loans at artificial levels. Earnings in wages and salaries, according to the Department of Commerce, are 18 per cent higher than a year ago while costs of living rose less than 5 per cent. This surplus of income accounts partly for a surge of buying that has taken place during the first half of 1941, tending to draw manufacturing activity away from defense production to civilian goods.

This extra buying power can and should be absorbed out of the market so far as possible by stringently increased excise taxes and sales of defense bonds. But inflation control requires more than that. It calls urgently for a kind of price-control law that will apply to all prices—raw materials, finished goods, farm products, wages, and rents—so as to keep these in some reasonable relation to their peacetime levels.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington—Dinner guests at the home of Harold Ickes are likely to have a tough time these days. If they are wise, they will take along their razors, a pair of pajamas, and if they happen to be in the columning business, a typewriter.

For, once you get to the Ickes house for dinner, you find you can't get away until after breakfast. You spend the night. Reason is that Secretary Ickes lives on a farm about twenty miles from Washington and he objects to using extra gasoline for an extra trip back to town. So if you don't have to get home to close the windows or feed the baby, you wait and drive to town with him in the morning.

However, if you think being a lock-up dinner guest at the Ickes home is tough, consider the plight of Mrs. Ickes. Mrs. Ickes has two babies and a large chicken farm. And before there was a gasoline shortage and her husband became Oil Conservator, she used to dodge in and out of Washington once or twice a day to take the baby to the doctor, interview wholesale chicken dealers, or even have lunch with her husband.

Now when she goes to town, she has to get up in time to ride with the Secretary of the Interior, notoriously one of the earliest risers in the Roosevelt Cabinet. Ickes leaves his farm in Maryland at 7:30 and gets to his desk about 8:10. Also he is one of the latest workers. So Mrs. Ickes not only comes to town early but she has to stay late—until her husband leaves his desk at about 6 P. M.

Of late, however, she has got even with him. If you notice the Secretary of the Interior coming to work in the morning with rather a sheepish expression, holding twelve pullets with their legs tied together, you know that it's Mrs. Ickes' fault.

She has decided that she will not hang round her husband's office all day to save gas, and has made Harold carry her chickens to market.

Note: One way or another, Secretary and Mrs. Ickes have managed to cut their own use of gasoline by about 50 per cent.

—CAPITAL CHAFF—

Harry Hopkins insists that the President dictate all letters to Winston Churchill himself. He says that relations between these two men are so important that not even a cabinet member should write to Churchill, only Roosevelt himself . . . . . Trust-busting Thurman Arnold has a consent decree in the bag with the oil pipeline operators. They were indicted for giving a rebate of 36 per cent to big oil companies using their lines; the little independents had to pay regular rates. They have now agreed to desist . . . . . The Director of British Censorship for the Western Hemisphere was responsible for the new War Department order by which the boys in the camps cannot write home about "matters pertaining to national defense." He warned that some of their letters were going to foreign countries.

—UNSCARED JAPANESE—

Best guess as to why the Japanese have not been scared by Roosevelt's embargo on gasoline and lubricating oil is that this embargo is almost exactly what he put into effect one year ago. Being slapped twice on the same wrist doesn't worry Tokyo.

As revealed exclusively in this column last year, a majority of the Roosevelt cabinet persuaded him in August to embargo all oil (not merely gasoline and lubricating oil, but even crude oil burned by the Japanese Navy). Roosevelt was up in Hyde Park at the time, and the embargo was put over by Secretary Morganthau, who lives next door to him in Dutchess County.

Roosevelt actually signed the oil embargo order. But when it got down to the Secretary of State, who officially promulgates all executive orders, he protested so vigorously that Roosevelt changed his mind. Only aviation gasoline was embargoed.

However, the Japanese merely set up their own refineries and added tetraethyl to ordinary gasoline. Thus they got plenty of aviation gas, plus all other kinds of oil not affected by the embargo. Foreign oil companies in Japan were required to keep a year's supply on hand, and domestic use was severely rationed. Also a lot of aviation gas was bootlegged, and U. S. officials did almost nothing to stop it.

So the slap on the wrist Japan got one year ago merely warned her to set up refineries and lay in extra supplies for the slap she got last week. In the interim, she had imported not merely one year's supply of gas and oil, but nearly two year's supply.

One year ago, the U. S. Navy estimated that it would take Japan four to five months to conquer the Dutch East Indies. But Japan at that time only had oil on hand to last her two and a half months. Today it might take Japan even longer, perhaps six months, to conquer the Dutch East Indies—but she has nearly two year's supply of oil with which to do it.

Note—This illustrates one essential difference between the Roosevelt and Churchill cabinets. When the British cabinet decides a major policy, a vote is taken, and the majority decision is carried out even if the Prime Minister happens to be on the minority side. But in Washington, if one cabinet member in charge of a certain policy says No, and if the President backs him up, the entire cabinet cannot overrule them.

Thus with Cordell Hull opposing an oil embargo against Japan last year, the entire cabinet could not overrule him. Also with Ickes opposing the sale of helium to Nazi zeppelins four years ago, the entire cabinet could not and did not budge him.

An eastern church burned — and, for once, the congregation was there.

Hollywood Column

Hollywood—"Golly!" exclaimed Private Kenneth Wilkinson. "You know, some of the fellas used to kid me about going to movies all the time. But this is what I get for it. Golly!

The champion movie-goer of the United States Army waved toward a crowded set on RKO's Stage 7. The gesture included, by implication, all that he had seen for several days past: every studio and almost every star; a big premiere and a party at Ciro's; luncheons in his honor, with big producers and Will Hays making speeches; all the newsreels taking his picture; chauffeured limousines, and a suite at a hotel in Beverly Hills. Golly!

He had been obliged to buy a second autograph book, and it was almost filled. And when he went back to Camp Lewis, Wash., he'd have maybe a hundred photographs that had been taken of him with different actors and actresses. Oh, yes—and the silver plaque which says that First Class Private Kenneth Wilkinson is the Army's No. 1 movie fan.

He was on a 10-day leave visiting his father in La Grande, Ore., when it happened. A story got into the papers about how the soldier had seen more than 300 movies in 10 months. Mr. Hays had written the commanding general, and the general telephoned Private Wilkinson to say that Hollywood wanted to meet him. "I like to fainted," recalled the small, red-headed, bespectacled 19-year-old.

REALLY SLICKED UP

The Army fixed him up with some uniforms that really fit, and with his divisional and regimental insignia, his pistol and rifle medals (marksman), and his first-class private's stripes, he looked fine. And he certainly didn't look like the same kid who, until his induction last October, often hadn't had enough to eat, and who spent six months in a state tuberculosis sanitarium.

"I like pictures with a little mystery in 'em," he said when pressed for a choice, but he went on to name Deanna Durbin and Judy Garland as his screen favorites. "I also like Mickey Rooney," he added decisively. "And Robert Stack, who is coming up fast. Fonda and Gable and Taylor are all quite good."

He said that he, personally, enjoys anti-Nazi films such as "Underground" and "Man Hunt," but for the majority of soldiers in the camps, he believes no picture is worth a whoop without plenty of glamor. "The camp theaters are in a continuous uproar when a pretty girl like Lamour or Landis or Grable is on the screen. Whistling, you know, and wisecracks."

World Affairs Reviewed

BY OSWALD GARRISON VILLARD

The acceptance by Mayor La Guardia of his renomination for a third term as Mayor of New York brings this remarkable man again into the limelight. The only reform mayor of Gotham ever to succeed himself, if he is again chosen and serves out his term, he will have been far longer in the City Hall than any other executive in New York's history, and will have put an indelible stamp upon the development and beautifying of the city. Under no other mayor has the metropolis made such strides; under no one else have the strivings of its civic conscience been as regularly translated into deeds, with the result that today the city bears no relationship to the ring-ridden and boss-dominated, down-at-the-heel, dirty, shabby, morally rotten and behind-the-times municipality of less than fifty years ago. In the last two decades of the past century as well as in the preceding one, New Yorkers had to apologize for what was and is the gateway to America. It was far inferior to the great cities of Europe. Its police were hand-in-glove with criminals, it was a veritable Sodom, and the price of its misgovernment was the warping of endless characters and souls, the physical and moral misery of multitudes, and the free and almost unchecked exploitation of every form of human weakness and vice.

—POPULARITY ON WANE—

It is today not only a beautiful city worthy of its high estate, but it compares most favorably with European cities as they were before the war. Thanks in large measure to the genius of the great head of its park system, Robert Moses, it is surpassed by no city in the beauty and size of its parks, parkways and magnificent drives. It is leading in municipal government in America. For this the whole credit is not, of course, due to any one man. It is the result of years of unselfish labor by reformers and social pioneers of all kinds, and by an awakened civic conscience which made possible the realization of long-cherished visions. But Mayor LaGuardia will always be remembered as one who was attuned to the need, who realized that the city should be primarily run, not in the interest of the richest and most privileged or the lowest and most degraded, but for the benefit and welfare of the masses. His sterling honesty has been acclaimed by all men.

Yet the fact is that he has retained nothing like his past popularity. He has alienated of his warmest backers. Samuel Seabury, for example, who did more than any other to put him into office, practically broke with him over the Mayor's indefensible appointment of former Mayor Walker, a thoroughly besmirched person who left office under the gravest cloud, to an important office carrying a large salary. Today Mr. Seabury is supporting LaGuardia, but frankly on the ground that there is no one else available. Both he and others of the Mayor's intimates are most generous to this hour in saying that LaGuardia is the best mayor New York ever has had. Yet they feel strongly that it would be advisable to make a change if the right man were in sight. For La Guardia has become arrogant, self-willed, passionate, at times highly excitable, a man with whom people work with the greatest difficulty. He has dismissed one after another of those closest in association with him, or they have left his offices voluntarily.

—MAYOR EYING LARGER FIELDS—

What is even more important is that the Mayor has to a considerable extent lost interest in his work. To put it another way, he is ambitious for a larger field and has been angling for national jobs. Once he announced that he was on the point of receiving a very high Federal office from the President. When Mr. Roosevelt was asked to confirm this he denied that any such thing was in contemplation, which left the Mayor in a ridiculous position. But the President has appointed the Mayor to head National Civilian Defense in which capacity he is pledged to find defense work for all able-bodied Americans, and he is also chairman of the Joint Canadian-American Defense Commission. The Mayor insists that he can swing these jobs and be an efficient mayor also. In the judgement of many people of importance this is not correct. The city will probably be neglected if he continues in this national work. That is serious, because the city's financial position is nothing like what it should be. Its chief source of income, real estate values, has been catastrophically affected by the depression, and assessments have had steadily to be reduced, and in justice should be reduced much further. The whole Wall Street district, for example, has seen an unparalleled collapse in values; there are millions of unrentable square feet there today.

Real Americans don't wait for the Star-Spangled Banner to be played to stand up for it.

VACATION

What is it about vacation
That has captivated all the nation?
Even newsboys must have two weeks,"
Same as "Presidents" and "social sleeks"!
Is it for rest? So we announce,
And we come home so tired we can't even
"bounce";
Or we get so bored with the rest we get
That we want to get back to toil and fret!
Some say it's the "change" a person needs,
Sort of get out and see how the weeds
Can grow in the other fellow's lot,
And get the notion that home is not
So bad! We don't have to go so far—
To find our place is still above par!
Or we may see glories we like so well
That going home is nothing to yell
About! We've been to "heaven," and mirth,
And now we have to "come back to earth"!
But we take our chances without concern,
And all of us reap a lovely sunburn!

CLIFTON MINE IS REOPENED

Property in New York Has Been Unworked Since 1870

Growing demands of armor plate makers for more high-grade iron have prompted the M. A. Hanna Company, large Cleveland mining concern, to "reopen" the historic, 75-year old Clifton Ore fields of St. Lawrence County, New York, deposits unworked since 1870.

Officially announcing the incorporation of the Clifton Ore Company as an M. A. Hanna subsidiary for the development of these long-idle deposits, it was further revealed by Hanna officials that actual mining operations will commence June 1942. Though other large steel companies are reported considering development of additional New York State iron ore deposits, none contemplate operations so soon. Construction work on the Clifton site is already under way.

A rich, magnetite iron deposit, Clifton's annual tonnage is expected to average over 300,000 tons of lump and "sinter" ore. The ore is regarded by experts as having perhaps the lowest phosphorous content in the country.

Mineral rights for 23,000 acres near DeGrasse were purchased by the M. A. Hanna Company from the Loomis Halc Company of Gouverneur, New York, and others. Mine headquarters are temporarily located at DeGrasse where the Clifton Ore Company plans erection of homes for key workers.

A benefication plant is to be built for grinding, magnetic separation, and sintering the crude ore before shipping; and ten miles of railroad track will be laid from the mine site to Newton Falls. Sintering operations (fusing the finely ground ore with pulverized coal to make clinkers of high iron content) will produce 1,000 tons of concentrate per day.

Preliminary strip mining is to be followed by shaft operations upon removal of the shallow surface deposits. Electric shovels are to be used for stripping and open pit mining.

The new Clifton Ore Company Inc., carries on where the former Clifton Iron Company left off back in 1870. The early development of the Clifton fields proved disastrous because the ore could not be smelted at the mines by the primitive equipment available. Over $1,000,000 was lost in that early venture. Since 1870, the deposits have lain idle.

Officers of the Clifton Ore Company are George M. Humphrey, president; G. N. Hickok, vice-president; E. E. Hunner, general manager; G. M. Cannon, assistant general manager and Guy B. Hunner, mine superintendent.

BUDDIES ARE TOGETHER

A recent edition of the Alaska Service Record, Anchorage, Alaska daily paper, carries a feature article about Ray F. Eis, and Jack McDonnell, Escanabans, and Spencer C. Mathison, Gladstone, who are all stationed at Anchorage.

The three young men who have known each other well for a number of years all enlisted in the Army at the same time and studied together at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., in the Air Corps. Eis and Mathison are teletype maintainance men, McDonnell a mechanic.

Eis and Mathison left together for Anchorage last spring. A month later McDonnell received a similar assignment. So all three are together again, several thousand miles from home.

Interlochen Offers Wide Opportunity For Study

(Editor's Note: This is the second of three articles about the National Music Camp, Northern Michigan's "Summer Capital of the Arts.")

BY FRED J. PANNWITT

Interlochen, Mich., Aug. 7 (AP)—When its backers call the National Music Camp the "Summer Capital of Arts," they're not just tossing fancy words into the wind. There are a great many factors which tend to support that claim.

The camp's "Raison D'Etre" is, of course, music, and even a casual glance at the list of instructors, guest conductors and artists is enough to convince all but the most hardened skeptic that it has become the nation's summer capital of music.

Yet around this hub of music has grown a startling array of side-lines, both major and minor, which invade virtually every artistic field of endeavor and even taper off into a periphery of subjects where art (the kind with a capital A) seems secondary.

You'd hardly expect, for example, to find serious-minded students of Wagner sweating in the sun while they learn to step high and twirl a baton in the approved drum-major manner. But you'll find them at Interlochen. You'll find classes, too, in radio broadcasting, script writing, recreational dancing, speech and radio-drama. Painting, the modern dance and drama for the legitimate stage come in for increasing attention.

For students in the college division, there are classes in such things as "grade school music methods" and "recreational counseling" as well as a number of other courses which carry college credit and may be applied toward a degree. This college-camp tie-up is arranged through the Illinois State Normal University at Normal, Ill.

For all its side-lines, the camp policy by no means neglects its primary function of instilling a love and knowledge of music into the minds of its 300 high school and 100 college age students.

Many of the nation's outstanding instrumentalists and instructors make the music camp their summer home, giving private lessons as well as the group instruction which is included in the camp's tuition fee. As a result, the camp is the only school of music in the country which has a full-time instructor for every instrument used in a symphony orchestra. Students who choose those relatively obscure instruments such as oboe, contrabassoon or harp have an equal chance with those whose inclinations or finances led them to take up the saxophone or the violin.

The chance to study under top-ranking artists constitutes a great portion of the lure which has drawn students this year from 41 different states and Canada and Hawaii. It accounts, too, for the fact that many who come to visit at the camp remain to study. The case of the Indianapolis woman who came for a weekend and stayed on to study voice under Arthur Kraft, concert tenor and teacher at the Eastman School of Music, is just an example. There's an indefinable something about the atmosphere of the place that gets under the skin of student and visitor alike. For want of a better term, they speak here of the "Spirit of Interlochen," in a sort of abashed way, but it's a real and driving force.

That spirit has some visible aspects that are rather startling to the layman who was taught to advance slowly in music through a long procession of meaningless scales and exercises. The camp's music directors think nothing of plunging a group scarcely beyond the beginner stage into a difficult arrangement of symphonic music.

Of course they make mistakes, but what of it? At the same time they are learning to get the "feel" of ageless music, and that, more than perfection of technique, is what counts in the minds of the leaders. With high school musicians, and after six days of rehearsal, they will present at a public concert a symphony which any professional orchestra would rehearse diligently for two weeks before daring to perform. What's more, the concert usually sounds wonderful.

Two weeks after the camp opened and after one week of rehearsal, the National High School Symphonic band presented a program largely made up of Wagner's difficult "parsifal." There were some rough spots to be sure, but by and large the youngsters demonstrated very capably that they understood what they were doing—and loved it.

Afterwards, the 27-year-old director of the band, Frederick Fennell, mopped his brow in obvious satisfaction while others of the staff gathered around to congratulate him on the performance. Fennell, who got his start at the music camp several years ago and is now conductor of the Eastman School of Music's Symphonic band as well as percussionist for the Rochester Philharmonic, is regarded as one of the most promising young conductors in the country.

"They did all right," he acknowledged. "We've had only ten hours of practice scattered through the week, but they understand what it's all about, and that's the important thing."

Right from the start, the demand for IMPERIAL was bigger than our most optimistic guess! Taste the reason—the spirits used in making IMPERIAL are distilled in the same stills as the base whiskies. It's delicious!

3 - Our eyes widened

as IMPERIAL forged ahead of one big brand after another! Blended in the world's largest distillery, IMPERIAL is the result of years of know how, years of blending experience. Blended by an improved method—IMPERIAL has what it takes to click with Michigan buyers!

4 - It's a whale of a whiskey!

Taste IMPERIAL! Good? Official Michigan State liquor sales figures prove that IMPERIAL was good enough to jump over 330 other brands of liquor in just one year! Today—try IMPERIAL. See for yourself what a grand whiskey it is!

CLEANING BLINDS

A good, hard coating of wax will keep the dust from clinging to Venetian blinds. Frequent use of the small brush attachment to your vacuum cleaner and a special fingered lambs' wool brush is a big help, too.

THROW "EMPTIES" AWAY

To keep a neat kitchen, don't try to hoard glass jars or bottles. Their attractiveness makes this a temptation, but so many foods are now put up in glass that new jars are always available at the neighborhood grocery. An accumulation of empty bottles soon gets out of control and uses up unnecessarily a lot of valuable kitchen shelf space.

RESTFUL COLOR SCHEME

If you want to redecorate a mahogany bedroom, you will probably want to consider color combinations that are unusual but not startling. Antique yellow and pale gray is unusual and decidedly restful. Have the walls a very pale gray, the carpeting slightly darker with gray and yellow patterned chintz for bedspread and dressing table skirt and bench. A striped fabric in gray and yellow would make handsome draperies over full eggshell curtains. One chair might be covered in matching striped material, others in plain yellow damask.

Remove Traces of Rust

Before repainting metal furniture any rust spots present must be removed to prevent further corrosion. Rub the spots with a piece of coarse emery cloth or a wire brush until the rust is entirely removed. Follow with a metal primer on bare spots. Then apply paint or enamel according to directions.

Talk of Politics Never Lets Down In State Capital

BY DAGNY JAY

Whatever the weather, political conversation does not lag in Lansing where party wheels whirr along even on the hottest summer days. Possible candidates for governor in the 1942 election are hashed over daily by capitol seers.

Now Gilbert T. (Duke) Shilson, of the Michigan Public Service Commission, is being mentioned as a Republican possibility. Former head of the Associated Press Bureau in Lansing, the "Iron Duke" holds an enviable position among newspapermen and politicoes. The capitol has long buzzed with stories of his prowess both as a member of the press and as an individual.

A few years back, when the Duke was still covering the capitol for the AP, a new legislator came to Lansing and mentioned hesitantly to a friend that he would like to be presented to Mr. Shilson, "when Mr. Shilson had time."

It was Shilson who could fling wide the doors of "closed" meetings, and force state officials to give out information when he felt the public should have it.

He is a big man, both in physical stature and in his integrity which has made him a trusted member of the Republican party—one from whom the big shots still seek advice.

Wife Not in Politics

With his jolly wife, Marjorie Shilson, and two young daughters, Duke Shilson lives on Wildwood Drive, East Lansing. Mrs. Shilson is a vivid personality in her own right, but she lets the head of the family handle the politics.

The Duke is office conversation downtown this week, and tea table conversation for wives at home.

The Governor was in town Saturday night, with Mrs. Van Wagoner and G. Donald Kennedy.

The Ballard-Roe wedding that evening in St. Paul's Episcopal church, society highlight of the summer, brought the Van Wagoners and Mr. Kennedy down from Mackinac Island in spite of the heat wave in which Lansing was sweltering.

The bride, Miss Joan Ballard, is the daughter of Byron Ballard, the governor's attorney. The bridegroom, Edward Olds Roe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Roe, is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ransom E. Olds and of Mrs. J. Edward Roe and the late Mr. Roe. The latter was a prominent banker here.

Have Many Visitors

Governor and Mrs. Van Wagoner and Mr. Kennedy didn't even stay in town long enough for the first lady to get in a bit of shopping. It was so hot here that they turned around and went back to their island Sunday morning.

A stream of guests eddied about the Van Wagoner's 20-room cottage last week. When the Harry Kipkes and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gross left, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Jossman of Pontiac, Mrs. Van Wagoner's parents, arrived. There for a short stay too were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Tubbs of Pontiac with their daughters, Nancy and Judy. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Urschel of Toledo, Ohio, came up on their yacht, "Priscilla," with their daughter, Mrs. Howard Rex, and Mr. Rex of Detroit. Mr. Urschel is commodore of the Interlakes Yaching Association. Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Howlett and Mr. and Mrs. William Hartman, old Pontiac friends, were met by the Van Wagoners for a day at Tahquamenon Falls in the Upper Peninsula.

"Spirit" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, August 10.

The Golden Text (Ephesians 5:9) is: "The fruit of the Spirit is in all goodness and righteousness and truth."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (I John 4:12, 13): "No man hath seen God at any time. * * * Hereby know we that we dwell in him and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 334): "Spirit being God, there is but one Spirit, for there can be but one infinite and therefore one God."

Pay Raise Sought By Group Of City Workers; New Ordinances Passed

Roderick MacDonald, organization director of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, who said he represented a number of city employees (believed to be about half) asked the city council last night for a $10 monthly raise for the local members of his organization.

MacDonald said the recent sharp rise in living costs prompted the request which he said he was making at the specific order of the employees he represented.

Councilmen listened to MacDonald's request but said that they would take no action on the matter without first having a recommendation from the local Civil Service Commission before which the members of the Federation have already appeared. The commission's conclusion several weeks ago was that the request was untimely.

City employees recently received a five per cent raise in pay and in 1937 received a 10 per cent increase. The average city employee is paid $119 monthly, works a five day, forty hour week, is entitled to sick leave, has civil service privileges. There are 126 regular city employees. The $10 raise asked would cost the city approximately $15,000 annually.

New Ordinance

The council heard the final reading of the newly enacted ordinance prohibiting the display of merchandise on sidewalks by local merchants. Penalty for violation of the ordinance which becomes effective in ten days is a $50 fine or 30 days in the county jail.

Approval of a supplement to the present contract of the city with the Upper Peninsula Light and Power company to enable several local utility operation changes to be made was voted by the council.

To Light Ski Park?

The council also agreed to permit the Department of Conservation to erect a short wave radio tower in the city's Winter Sports Park at Danforth. The Conservation Department will furnish about 100 poles necessary for the erection of a power line to the park. Tentative arrangements to install lighting facilities in the skiing area which can be done at small cost to the city was agreed upon.

A request by Ray Perring of the Escanaba Motor company to install a gas pump for the exclusive use of the Greyhound Motor company on the south side of the garage property was granted.

No action was taken on requests by two tavern operators for dance permits.

Property Exchange

City Manager George E. Bean reported to the council that no agreement on the sale of the city scales now located at the police station has yet been made. Efforts to effect a satisfactory deal are under way.

The request of property owners on Third avenue south between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets to have the street paved as a WPA project was granted and will be incorporated in the city's next request for local projects.

The council approved the trade of a city owned lot on the north shore for a forty acre plot east of the sewage disposal plant.

Anyone Claim A Vicious Bull?

Has anyone lost a red and white Guernsey bull — one with a very evil disposition?

That question was propounded by the sheriff's office yesterday. Sheriff William E. Miron reported that for a week the bull, weighing between 1,600 and 2,000 pounds and described by Miron as being "very vicious" in nature, had been loitering around the home of Axel Heikkila, located west of Rock.

"Everyone concerned hopes that the owner of that bull will appear to claim the evil-tempered animal", Miron declared.

ATTRACTS MANY ANGLERS

Calumet, Mich.—The first Keweenaw Trout Trolling Derby is going over nicely, and members of the Copper Country Conservationist League, which is sponsoring the event, are well pleased with the patronage that is coming to the Copper Country from far and near to try conclusions with the big trout of Lake Superior.

M. J. Hansen, the Derby's business manager, stated that the largest numbers of Derby entrants are Illinois and Ohio anglers, with a considerable number from lower Michigan. There have been entries from as far away as California by people who are accustomed to salt water fishing, and who are finding thrills a-plenty catching giant trout in the quieter waters of Superior.

Entries can be made at any time, and the Derby will continue until August 10, closing with the first annual Derby Ball at Copper Harbor, when prizes totaling $1,000 will be awarded for the largest fish.

Rapid River

Royal Neighbors Meet

Rapid River, Mich.—The Royal Neighbors will hold a regular meeting Tuesday, August 12 in the afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nora Magnusson in Ensign.

Birthday Enjoyed

Mrs. George Ames celebrated her 68th birthday anniversary Wednesday at her farm home west of town. Her children, grand children and great grand children assembled to spend the afternoon and enjoyed a birthday supper with her and Mr. Ames. A birthday cake graced the table and Mrs. Ames received gifts from the guests. For many years past Mrs. Ames and Mrs. Hilma Johnson, whose birthdays occur on the same day, Mrs. Johnson being ten years the older, celebrated together at one or the other homes. This year Mrs. Johnson being confined to her bed with illness was unable to enjoy the day with her. A birthday cake and gifts was sent to Mrs. Johnson. At the Ames home for the afternoon and supper were: Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Burnette and daughter, Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ames, Rodney and Julaine Ames, Mrs. Hilda Johnson, Mrs. Waldron Johnson and son, James, Mrs. Zeph Rushford, Stanley and Gayle Rushford, Mrs. Bob Roberts and baby and Fay Minor.

American Legion Meet

Members of the August Mattson Post, American Legion from Gladstone, held a meeting Monday night at the George Beaudry camp, north of Rapid River on the Whitefish river. A large crowd was in attendance and a good time reported.

Free Movie

The free movie, sponsored by the merchants of the town is again with us and large crowds are on hand Saturday night to enjoy the pictures.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Eldron (Shine) Spricks, Willard Spricks and Ardavan Rushford who are employed at Detroit spent the week end with relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fox of Traverse City were week end visitors at the Guy Wellman home. They were accompanied by Wilda Wellman and Catherine Christoff who have been guests at the Fox home for the past several weeks.

Friends of Mrs. Thomas Mullin, formerly Fern Ingraham of Rapid River, will be interested in the following item: Born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mullen of Detroit on July 27, twins, a boy and a girl. The babies have been named Carole Fern and Charles Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pearson Jr. and niece Eilene Obeda of Chicago are visiting at the Frank Pearson Sr. home in Masonville.

Mrs. Art Lauson of Masonville left Saturday for a month's visit with her parents at Joliet, Ill.

Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Swanson and baby are leaving the early part of next week for a vacation visit with Rev. Swanson's parents near Wilkesbarre, Penn. He expects to be gone two weeks. They have moved from the Berman house to the Harry Person home which has recently been remodeled for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beauchamp and son Gerald of Bark River were week-end guests at the Guy Wellman home.

Miss Ina Short who has been attending the summer session of the Northern Michigan College of Education at Marquette has returned home. Raymond Gravelle who also attended the summer session there arrived here and is acting as substitute, rural mail carrier during the vacation of the regular carrier, Frank J. Gravelle.

Rev. and Mrs. Gerald Smith are leaving Friday for a vacation trip to their former home in Georgia. They will visit relatives and friends in Georgia and Alabama, Lillian Johnson will accompany them as far as Chicago where she will visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Burt have moved from the Hock appartment to the Etta Sundquist home, formerly occupied by the Cronje Johnson family.

Irma Lamberg and Lloyd Branstrom of Ensign are guests of Lilian Branstrom this week.

Sunday guests at the George Muth home included Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kelligan of Marinette, Wis., accompanied by Mrs. Irene Metcalf of Kansas City, Mo. Mrs. Anne Bodunes, son Martin and Mrs. Al Sommer and daughter Eleanor of Little Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Crooks and Mrs. Schraeder of Munising, Mrs. Ed Zeiser, Mrs. Quimby, Mrs. Oscar Falk of Menominee and Mrs. Fisher of Milwaukee. The Muth home is very pleasantly situated with the Tacoosh river on the south side of them and a large spring bubbles out of the rocks forming a small creek on the east side, which joins the Tacoosh at their back yard. A beautifully arranged rock garden is also an attraction. Beautiful large shade trees dot the lawn and a number of pet squirrels, bold and sassy will entertain one. The squirrels are so tame they run right up on the outdoor table and eat out of your hand. Thus the Muth home with its pleasing host and hostess and pleasant surroundings is an inviting place for their friends and relatives to spend time with them.

Eero Wiitala, a former coach at the Rapid River high school called on friends here Thursday. He is now stationed at Portland, Oregon in the army air corps.

Harlan Christiansen and several friends of Saginaw are spending several days at the Rudolph Christiansen home.

Rev. and Mrs. O. B. Hanson and daughter, Gwendolin of Chicago who have been visiting relatives left Thursday for a trip through the Copper Country before returning to their home in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hawn and daughter Mary of Milwaukee returned to their home Friday after several days spent at the George Muth home.

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA

New York, Aug. 7 (AP)—Quiet strength of assorted specialties gave the stock market a fairly stabilized appearance today, although many leaders continued to falter.

Earnings, actual and prospective, brought bids for individual issues notwithstanding the fact many company statements disclosed the heavy inroads mounting taxes were making on profits.

The same recent buying handicaps persisted, brokers said. Among these were fears of Far Eastern eventualities, conflicting German-Russian war communiques, doubts regarding the tax program and the thought proposed price-control legislation might take most of the coloring out of inflation. An outbreak of strikes accentuated conservatism.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues again was unchanged at 43.9. Transfers totalled 497,120 shares, against 581,170 the day before.

Rails just about kept their balance despite a contra-Seasonal drop in last week's freight loadings and some apprehension over the stalemate in the carriers' wage dispute.

Steels had to contend with threats to production due to scrap shortage and motors once more were clouded by the idea of possible drastic output restrictions.

American Woolen preferred jumped 4½ points and the common was up 7-8, both at new 1941 tops. Further bidding here was attributed to the concern's pleasing six-month showing. United Merchants & Manufacturers also made a new year's high, along with J. I. Case.

Modest improvement was retained by Fajardo Sugar, Sears Roebuck, Goodrich, Goodyear, Pan American Airways, Du Pont, Santa Fe, J. C. Penney and Allied Chemical.

On the losing end were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Standard Oil (N. J.), American Smelting, U. S. Rubber and Consolidated Edison.

Tilting forward in the curb were Aluminum, Ltd., Columbia Oil & Gas, Niagara Hudson Power, American Gas and Pantepec. On the offside were Glen Alden Coal, American Cyanamid "B," Humble Oil and Brewster Aero.

New York, Aug. 7 (AP)—Selected railway loans tilted fractions to 1 or more higher in the bond market today as heavier freight movement in connection with national defense activity brought predictions of robust autumn loadings.

Out in front in the loan market, too, were the bonds of Alleghany Corp., the 5s of '50 closed 3¼ higher at 61¾, the 5s of '49 up 1½ at 79 and the 5s of '44 at 92, up 1¾. Financial circles heard a plan to change the indenture provisions behind the three issues was meeting favorable support fro mholders.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP)—Corn took over leadership of the grain price advance today with gains ranging up to as much as 2 3-8 cents at one time that put May, 1942, contracts at a new four-year peak of 86¼.

Wheat, oats and rye followed with gains of about a cent, deferred wheat and oats reaching new highs since 1937 of $1.19 7-8 and 48 1-8, respectively.

Prices in all pits reacted before the close, however, due principally to profit taking and evening-up of accounts, but corn finished 5-8 to 1 3-4 cents higher than yesterday, September 78 3-8 to 78¼, December 81¼, May 85 5-8. Wheat was unchanged to ½ up, September $1.12½ to $1.12 3-8, December $1.15 5-8 to $1.15½, May $1.18 7-8 to $1.19 3-8; oats ¼ to 5-8 higher, rye 1-8 to ¼ up; soybeans 2¼ to 3 3-8 higher and lard 3 to 5 higher.

Most buying of corn, which centered in May futures, was based on reports of crop deterioration as a result of hot weather and lack of rain in many sections of the belt.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE FEW TO WHOM MANY OWE SO MUCH

(This is the second of a series of articles on the R. A. F.)

LONDON — (By Wireless) — Without exception the R. A. F. fighters with whom I have talked claim complete superiority in the air "as far as our fuel will take us." They do not claim it merely man for man and plane for plane, but as a fighting force. They acknowledge a radical numerical superiority of Nazis.

Dorothy Thompson

When I asked, "before the Russian campaign"? they answered, "not altogether. But in the first two weeks of the Russian campaign there was nothing but rubbish in the air. We have pulled a lot of first-rate Nazi pilots back from the Eastern front."

The Nazi numerical superiority does not bother the R.A.F. fighters however. They remember when it was overwhelming, when man for man and plane for plane superiority accomplished wonders. They say, "the original enemy tactic is no good. Too many planes are as bad as too few. When the air is black with them it is like flying into a flight of wild geese. Maybe you come down, but you also had a chance of bringing down five or even ten of them. They got in each other's way. They even had to paint the noses of their planes yellow to distinguish their own."

They say contemptuously, "the Nazis are a brave lot when they outnumber us ten to five, but they won't come in even with tactical advantages even when fighting over their own soil where they could bail out in relative safety unless they are numerically superior. There are occasional exceptions, of course, but that holds as a generality."

The R. A. F. men have great strategical disadvantages in daylight bombing over Germany. Except from great heights made increasingly effective by the new American bombers capable of carrying heavy bomb loads it is out of the question because no fighters can fuel themselves to Germany and back. But within an area which they can cover they fear no Nazi planes, or fleets of them.

They declare they are pushing the air battle front further and further into France. They also are convinced of the superiority of their fighting planes in speed and height. But above all they are convinced of their superiority in personnel, initiative, teamwork and sheer guts.

"If the Nazis could add to their operational tactics half of the British guts they would be invincible," one airman said.

The R. A. F.'s attitude toward the Nazis is that of members of the free corps toward a mass of men.

Personally I am inclined to think that the British airman is nearer the sailor than the soldier, whereas the Nazi airman is nearer the soldier than the sailor. The Nazi airman is a man in boots; the British airman is not. Like the sailor he counts continually with the unforeseen, counting on leadership and improvisation whereas the Nazis counts on staff work.

The sea made Britain and British education has salt air in it at all times in the emphasis on personal leadership. The German is accustomed to battling against other men; the Briton is accustomed to battling against the elements, and the elements are arbitrary and do not take orders from the Luftwaffe command.

British airmen have had opportunities to encounter many Nazi pilots who have been shot down. They characterize them on the whole as a boastful lot.

"Disgustingly arrogant," they say. "Lately," they add, " they have been less so."

Some Nazis have given themselves up docilely and confessed they were glad to be out of it. But as a rule, the British airmen say, the Nazis have an unshakeable, servile confidence in the Fuehrer, who in their minds can make no mistake.

"He made a mistake about being in London by September fifteenth, last year," one Briton twitted.

"He changed his mind," a Nazi airman replied coldly.

The British airmen say, "the Nazis believe their own propaganda is a jolly good thing for us."

The Nazis for instance are surprised at being fed in England. They expect brutal treatment. They do not get it from the British airmen, but neither do they get the British airmen's admiration.

LESSONS IN LOVE

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Standing on the edge of Larry Grover's swimming pool, Barbara is suddenly picked up by Dugan Blake and hurled into the water. Dugan explains he was just collecting his golf bet. Later, after everyone else is in bed, Barbara hears sounds coming from the kitchen. She investigates, finds Dugan preparing a late snack. After breaking a paper bag and frightening Dugan, Barbara is clasped in his strong arms and finds herself kissing him.

DUGAN IS CLEARED
CHAPTER X

Barbara clung to Dugan for a few seconds longer after he had released the pressure of his arms. She tried to collect her thoughts.

Dugan Blake had kissed her and she had returned his kiss. Why? . . . Why? . . . she asked herself over again.

As abruptly as he had taken her in his arms, he left her and went over to straddle a chair. His face was expressionless.

"According to the book, I'm supposed to say something melodramatic, like 'I shouldn't have done that.' Well, whether I should or shouldn't have is a moot point. I did it for only one reason. I'm always doing what my impulses dictate, and I suddenly got an impulse to kiss you then."

She felt disappointed. "Oh, is that the reason?"

He looked at her sharply. "I guess so."

"You guess so. For a minute," she said brightly, "I thought you finally were succumbing to my charms."

"You say 'finally' as though it were inevitable."

He got up and took her hand. She made a move as if to withdraw it, but he tightened his hold.

Dugan smiled tightly. "Maybe I shouldn't be a hypocrite. Maybe it was inevitable. Maybe it's me that's being fooled, and not you."

Something jumped inside of her—something she knew wasn't supposed to happen to her. She laughed nervously. "Quite a speech for you."

She turned to the stove. "Well, this is where we came in. How about those eggs?"

"I'm not hungry any more," he said. "Maybe we'd better go to bed."

She couldn't help saying what she did. It was too perfect a spot.

"Beating a retreat, eh, before you do irreparable damage to yourself?"

His mouth set for an instant. "Don't worry about me. I recover fast from something that isn't good for me."

To Barbara it was like walking smack into a door in the dark.

Barbara hardly saw Dugan during the next four days. Once he practiced with Larry's Briar Hill polo team. Most of the time he spent in New York with Uncle Hank.

Uncle Hank came back from New York alone on Wednesday night.

"Dugan's having dinner with some people tonight, Barbara," he said, drawing her to a chair. "Sit down. I want to tell you something."

He took her hand in both of his. "I found out today what's at the bottom of this Midwest Oil business."

"Yes?" she said eagerly.

"Chap by the name of Bert Lipscomb was Dugan's roommate at school. Pretty close roommates, I understand. Well, Bert's father is president of Midwest. There was an attempt to squeeze Old Man Lipscomb out of the company, but he found it out just in time.

"Then he had to work fast. There had to be a reorganization, but things were in a mess. In order to swing it he had to get an awful lot done in a very short time. There was no one he could trust . . . until his son remembered Dugan."

Uncle Hank sat down beside Barbara. "Well, substantially, that's the story. Dugan couldn't turn down his old roommate, and he didn't dare breathe a word to anyone. Circumstances just put him smack in the middle . . . and we, like fools, jumped to conclusions."

"And I guess we jumped too far and too fast," she admitted.

He looked at her quizzically. "You like him?"

"He's frightfully handsome, but he's too superior for his own good. I like men to be superior, but I like them more like—like, well, like Larry Grover. He's a superior type, too, but at least he'll bend once in a while."

Uncle Hank chuckled. "You're going to the country club dance with Grover Friday night, aren't you? How about Dugan?"

"He's stagging . . . as usual. And as usual he probably will need a bodyguard to protect him from the sweet young things."

"Oh, I daresay he'll manage to break away to dance with you at least once," Uncle Hank told her. "That is, if you don't wear that 'keep-your-distance' look you usually have whenever he's in the room."

She wanted to laugh. If only Uncle Hank knew what had happened last week-end.

Dugan brushed a spot of powder off his white jacket—powder which a "sweet young thing" had deposited while dancing — and leaned on the veranda railing with Rod Porter, No. 2 man on the Briar Hill polo team.

"Not a very good stunt, this dancing business, for gents who play a round-robin polo tournament in two days," Rod said.

Dugan laughed. "You're right. We won't be able to climb aboard a horse. With seven teams entered, how many games do you think the winner will eventually play?"

"About three," Porter guessed "Unless there's a bye somewhere along the line. Anyway, we ought to beat that Spring Mountain outfit tomorrow morning."

Dugan nodded absently. He had just noticed Barbara and Larry walking off the terrace toward the garden.

From within the clubhouse, the melodic throbbing of the orchestra floated out through the open windows. He could hear the laughter and all the sounds in the night which spoke of carefree gaiety.

Dugan knew suddenly that he was going to miss much of this. On Monday he would leave for Oklahoma. Oklahoma and the black dirt and the still blacker gold which rushed and gushed from the ground.

It was good to think of that too, because that was his life and he loved it.

His reverie was broken as another "sweet young thing" grabbed his arm.

"This is our dance, but I don't want to dance," she wailed. "C'mon, show me the garden and the moon."

He tried to protest but she dragged him off down the walk.

"Isn't this gorgeous," his companion breathed, but Dugan didn't notice.

All he saw was Larry Grover and Barbara behind a silvery birch tree.

Barbara was in Larry's arms and he was kissing her.

FISHING
with
Sid W. Gordon

You'll often hear a fisherman say, "any fly reel is good enough for me, it is only something to carry the line anyway." That may work with him, but not with me. When I pay $2.50 for one line and up to $10 for another, I expect them to last me for years.

That kind of money is too hard for me to get, to spoil a good line in a few days of hard fishing. And you'll surely ruin your line if the inside of the drum, the spool, is not large enough to carry every bit of that line with room to spare.

Most fly lines are 30 yards long, only 90 feet. Your longest cast will often go 60 feet even if you think you are a novice at fly fishing. No fly fisherman has a right to call himself a fisherman who doesn't expect to tie into a heavy fish on his "next cast."

Assume there is a heavy fish, fast water, a high bank and, as sometimes happens, a lost net. It is only right that you are prepared for situations like this, for they really come up quite often. You might say, "well, I'll agree that it can happen, Sid, but you are dragging in the lost net just to make it tougher."

Maybe I am, but when I'm hanging onto a stub with one hand and fighting a heavy fish with the rod held in the other, my net is as useless as if I had none. The only way I can land that fish is thoroughly to tire him, bringing him to me when he is just so much dead weight, "playing him off his feet" as the fishermen put it. I cannot beach him for the bank is too sheer.

Spliced to 100 Yards

I may have 60 feet of line out when the fish hits. I have then but 30 feet of line left on the reel drum. He rushes down the rapids and that 30 feet of line is gone so fast that fish, fly and leader are lost almost instantly.

To overcome those once in awhile (but most welcome) happenings, my tapered or level fly line is always spliced or knotted to 100 yards of a 15 or 20 pound test, bait casting line. We call this a running line. Probably so called because you can let the fish run, but I do know that it saves me galloping down the "crick" like a big moose after him.

For the only way I know to fight a heavy fish, a fast fish, in the rapids is to "let him run." To turn him I must trust to the even, steady strain against the bamboo, which I make him take all the time he is racing and making the current help him.

In time, and I take plenty of time, this strain will tire him for you can drown the strongest man swimmer in the world with a good rod and line, but we'll go into that when we talk about playing a fish in a later article.

It is then most necessary to buy a reel, low priced or high priced, which must have carrying capacity enough so that the good enamel fly line will not jam against the cross bars, the top, the line guard or bulge out through the sides of some of the poorly designed reels.

I once ruined a $10 line with too small a reel, but I never ruined another. My fly reel now has plenty of room for all the line I wish it to carry, without ever having to take a chance by jamming on the last few yards when winding up, to put it away in the reel sack.

Automatic vs. Click Reel

There are two types of reels, the automatic and the click reel. Being an old timer I have always used the click reel and cannot give you much advice about the automatic for I have never used one which had enough line carrying capacity and the right weight to suit me.

I have noticed that the fishermen who start out with the automatic and stay with them never break a tip with that too quick pull on the trigger, and many good fishermen swear by the automatic, but I have seen many a broken tip when the fisherman did not take their power and quickness of operation into consideration all the time he was using one.

With a regular reel, the click reel, I can always buy a spare drum and carry a level line on the drum, slipping it into the reel frame in a second. With these reels I can adjust the click or regulator so that I can play a fish against the rod and the reel as well.

But reels with good regulators are expensive from $9 to $25 and a great deal of that is the duty on them. The American made reels are now coming into their own. One can now buy good reels for $3.50 with which an extra drum may be had for $1.50 more to carry a spare line and slip in the frame in short order.

Plenty of Clearance

Some like a reel, including the line, to weigh about once and a half as much as the rod. I do not think it is absolutely necessary to have one as heavy as that if you have a "light hand." But if you feel that you get better balance in casting, it is an easy matter for you to wind on a little sheet lead, around the core or arbor.

Then wind on the running line, attach the fly line to the running line, but see to it that you have plenty of line clearance. Remember that an HCH, or HDH double tapered line is very much thicker than the bait casting line. If you do not have plenty of room for it on the spool or drum you spoil the most vital part of the line, the tapered part for which you pay so much extra to fish with.

ABOUT QUICKSAND

The grains of sand in quicksand are rounded. When wet, they do not cling together like the angular particles of ordinary sand and thus can engulf a human being if he steps into it.

WAR AND DUST

Dust storms in America were caused by the World War in Europe, since farmers broke the soil on all available acreage and set the stage for wind erosion, because of high-priced wheat.

METAL DRIVE BEGINS HERE

Aluminum Pickup Will Get Underway This Morning

Manistique residents will have an opportunity to contribute to the national defense program beginning today, when a four day aluminum campaign will get underway here.

Today and tomorrow will be devoted to a general campaign in which residents are requested to bring aluminum receptacles to special bins, which will be erected at various street corners throughout the city and county, while Monday and Tuesday Boy Scout troops will conduct a house to house clean-up canvass throughout the city.

The local Legion post and the defense council are sponsoring the campaign in Manistique and Schoolcraft county.

Erect Large Bins

The two largest bins will be placed at the intersection of Cedar and Walnut streets and Deer and Houghton streets. Smaller containers will be erected at the corner of Deer and Third streets, Cooks, Thompson, Germfask, Seney, Gulliver, Green school and Cooks school.

County trucks will collect the metal from each of these points and it will be taken to a central collection point in the county, which has not been designated as yet. From this point it will be moved by state highway trucks to Escanaba, which has been designated as the collection center for the Upper Peninsula by the Defense Council.

Three Scout troops will cooperate in the house to house canvass which will be conducted Monday and Tuesday under the direction of William J. Cook, Scout commissioner.

Scouts Canvass City

Troops will divide the city into three districts for the campaign. District one will include all houses on both sides of Chippewa avenue, north and west and will be canvassed by the Lions Scout troop, number 62, under the direction of Louis Rogers.

District two includes homes on Riverside from South Mackinaw and both sides of Maple avenue to Arbutus. Rotary Scout troop, number 61, will solicit in this area.

District three is composed of all homes on Lakeside, east of and including both sides of Lake street. Legion troop, number 60, will be in charge of solicitations in this area under the direction of Earl Jewett.

Each troop is requested to have at least six members ready to participate in the drive. Scouts will meet at 9 o'clock Monday morning at the city hall, where trucks will be assigned to each of the groups.

ADVICE GIVEN FOR DOG BITES

Suggestions Offered to Avoid Pasteur Treatments

If you have a mad dog scare these hot summer days, don't shoot the dog that bites you, but tie him up is the recommendation advanced by the Schoolcraft-Alger Health Department. As a result it is quite unlikely that you will have to take Pasteur treatments, according to the health unit.

Tieing up a suspected dog is a sure way of finding whether or not Pasteur treatments are called for, since the dog if mad dies within ten days. As long as the dog lives, there is no need for Pasteur treatments for anyone it has bitten, unless the bites are about the head and face. In that case, treatments should be started immediately, but stopped if the dog remains normal for ten days. Starting treatments at once for face bites is a necessary precaution, since the virus if present in the dog's saliva can reach the brain along a pathway of nerves that is very short.

When dogs are shot or when they cannot be found after biting someone, the physician will feel that Pasteur treatments are necessary, since no one can be sure that the dog was not rabid. That's why so much more rabies vaccine is used in Michigan than would be needed to treat persons actually bitten by mad dogs. The unnecessary treatments are an expense, a discomfort and there is even a slight possibility of vaccine reaction, so the rule should be, don't shoot the biting dog, but tie him up.

Biting is not always a characteristic of the mad dog. A change of disposition is usual. The quiet dog may become vicious, the bad-tempered dog may become quiet. The mad dog may stay at home, or it may wander for miles in a night. It may avoid anything in its path, or it may go out of its way to attack other dogs or humans.

Hot weather will mean more dog bites, although not necessarily more rabid dogs. For that reason it is particularly important to avoid unnecessary Pasteur treatments. For peace of mind and for better protection, tie up the biting dog and don't rush into treatments unless the bites are about the face.

All dog bites should be reported to the local health department and steps will be taken to isolate the dog for ten days. Rabies vaccine is furnished free of charge to all physicians requesting it.

REMOVE CARGO FROM STEAMER

Diver Inspects Damage to Vessel Aground In Harbor

Work was started yesterday removing cargo from the steamer Robert J. Paisley, of the Morrow Steamship company of Cleveland, which went aground inside the Manistique harbor breakwater early Wednesday morning.

The cargo of coal, bound for the Girvin dock, is being removed by the steamer, Fred W. Green, and taken to the dock. The vessel went aground in about 18 feet of water with its bow 100 feet from the Ann Arbor carferry dock.

Carferry service to Manistique, which was suspended temporarily, was resumed yesterday, although it is being operated on a wild schedule. However officials announced that there will be at least one daily boat until the regular schedule is resumed.

A diver arrived here and went down to inspect damage to the vessel yesterday afternoon. Pumps have been ordered and with the removal of the cargo an attempt will be made to pump out the water and float the vessel. As the boat was still aground it was believed yesterday it would be necessary to make repairs to the cargo hold from the interior of the ship.

Manistique City Manager Involved In Auto Accident

Philip H. Beauvais, city manager, and Jacob Hoffman, Cheboygan, were involved in an accident occurring at 10:30 Wednesday night on Highway M-77 in Blaney Park.

According to state police, Beauvais was driving south towards Manistique and was unable to stop as he came over a hill, running into the Hoffman car, which was parked on the highway.

Both cars were damaged in the accident and it was reported that Beauvais received slight injuries.

Both drivers were given traffic violation tickets by state police. Beauvais was charged with not having his car under control and driving without an operator's lisense, while Hoffman was given a ticket for parking on the highway.

At his arraignment yesterday afternoon, Beauvais was represented by Attorney William Sheahan, who said that his client would stand mute and a plea of not guilty was entered.

Campers At State Park Exceed Total Number For 1940

Campers at Indian Lake State Park are averaging about 50 each night and the total number thus far this summer is already in excess of that of last year E. T. King, caretaker at the park, announced yesterday.

Most campers desire to obtain good fishing and the first question they ask Mr. King is, "How are the fish biting?"

The fishing continues to be good, according to King, and proof of it is furnished by Ray O. Britton of Flint, who caught a 37 inch northern pike, weighing 13 pounds, Wednesday night. Britton was accompanied by Jack Duncan, also of Flint.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a white satin floor length gown and a veil of white tulle and carried a bouquet of garden flowers.

Her sister, Mildred Tanguay, maid of honor wore a blue floor length tafetta dress with white accessories and carried a bouquet of snapdragons. Mrs. Isadore Reno was bridesmaid and she wore a pik crepe floor length dress with white accessories and pink snapdragons were used in her bouquet. Little Jacqueline Reno, sister of the groom, was the flower girl and she was prettily dressed in pale yellow and carried yellow flowers.

Isadore Reno, brother of the groom, was best man, and Girard Reno, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

A wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents in Cooks to thirty guests and supper was served at the home of the groom's parents in Garden. A dance was held later in the evening at the Community hall in Garden.

The young couple have left on a trip to Chicago, Milwaukee and Detroit.

How One Woman Lost
20 Pounds of FAT

Lost { Her Double Chin
Her Prominent Hips
Her Sluggishness

Gained { In Attractiveness
A Shapely Figure

When your bowels and kidneys fail to perform their work correctly your system cannot throw off the waste materials and digestion often becomes deranged—you lose energy and activity. Perhaps before you realize it you're losing your appeal and getting objectionably fat.

Take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of water every morning half an hour before breakfast, cut out pastry, fatty meats—and go light on white bread, potatoes, butter and cream. In three weeks get on the scales and see how many pounds of fat have vanished; notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin seems clearer and eyes brighter—you feel younger in body and keener in mind.

Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts (a famous English formula) plain or new effervescent—sparkling—pleasant, at leading druggists everywhere; lasts 4 weeks and is inexpensive. Money back if not fully satisfied.

Cardinals Defeat Reds, 3-2, In 11th; Regain First In National

CHICAGO BEATEN BY PITTSBURGH

Dodgers Idle and Drop to Second Place, Pirates Closing Strongly

Cincinnati, Aug. 7 (AP)—The ever-battling St. Louis Cardinals grabbed back the National League lead from the idle Dodgers today by breaking loose in the 11th inning to rout the Cincinnati Reds and Bucky Walters, 3 to 2.

The Reds themselves came within an ace of snatching the game back in their half, scoring one run on Jimmy Gleson's pinch single, but with the trying run on third and the winning run on first, Eddie Joost fouled out to Gus Mancuso.

Mound Duel

Up to the 11th Morton Cooper, who is still recovering from the effects of an elbow operation, and Walters fought on almost even terms. The Cards scored one run in the second on Johnny Mize's double and Jimmy Brown's single, and the Reds got it back in the seventh on singles by Frank McCormick, Chuck Aleno and Lonnie Frey.

Mize opened the 11th with a single and Enos Slaughter sent him to third with a double. Brown went out on an infield play, but Estel Crabtree batted for Martin Marion and singled Mize in. Mike McCormick's perfect throw cut down Slaughter on his attempt to score. Cooper then singled in Crabtree with what turned out to be the winning runs.

Woman Sensation Of National Skeet Meet

BY FRITZ HOWELL

Indianapolis, Aug. 7, (AP)—S. Lewis Hutcheson, 33-year-old woolen mill operator from New York City and Greenwich, Conn., won the 20-gauge championship—but today's yarn on the seventh annual national skeet tournament belongs to Mrs. M. L. Smythe, diminutive Aurora, Ohio, sharpshooter.

The Buckeye star "shot the works" by entering the open race against the men and came within an ace of taking everything on the grounds. She broke 100 in a row—first time a woman has ever broken the "century" with a 20-gauge in the nationals and the second score of its kind in all feminine competition.

That score tied her with Hutcheson, who cracked his third straight hundred of the meet, for the wide-open laurels and clinched for her the women's championship, which Patricia Laursen of Akron, Ohio, won a year ago with 94.

Lost In Shootoff

The two leaders tangled in the 25-target shootoff and it was all over on the first one, Mrs. Smythe missing. Hutcheson went on to break the entire string, giving him 125 in a row, while Mrs. Smythe, the cause already lost, missed the seventh and fourteenth also to finish with 22 of 25.

Mrs. Smythe, hardly bigger than a minute, has been the star of the meet to date. Yesterday she won the women's sub-small gauge title and tied for the small gauge, only to lose in a shootoff. Today she proved she is the best feminine shot in the country with the 20-gauge and that only one man is a better marksman with that arm.

F. Luther Brown, 15, of San Antonio, Tex., won the national junior crown with 99 of 100, beating a fast field of kids under 17 years of age.

The sub-junior crown, for shooters under 13, went to 12-year old Newton Newman of Evansville, Ind., who broke 83. Hermna Ehler of San Antonio, Tex., won the 20-gauge professional championship with 98.

Starting tomorrow, the field, expected to reach 400, will battle over the 250-target, three-day stretch for the all-gauge championship.

Short Shots on Sports

By Milton Plumb

The Short Shotter considered the possibility of undertaking the promotion of a Labor Day water carnival for Escanaba. However, after discussing the ramifications of such an event with Bev Butts, it was decided that the local beach was not yet in condition for use as a water pageant site on a large scale . . . and we decided to call the whole thing off until next year . . . it will give us something to work on for next summer, another step toward that well-rounded summer sports program . . . and it will be only a few weeks before we start talking about winter sports for '41-42.

Today's golf rule . . . "U. S. G. A. Stroke Rule eleven grants a privilege to a player in Medal play that offsets failure to play a Provisional Ball. By adding two penalty strokes a player may lift and tee his ball (Using an artificial tee) back of the spot whence his ball was lifted. If this be impossible then he may tee his ball as near as possible where it lay, but not nearer to the hole."

Austin O'Jibway (he should enlist in the navy, with a name like that), the former Sault Ste. Marie athlete who is a University of New Mexico junior, Oklahoma state boxing champion for three consecutive years, Rocky Mountain heavyweight king (1940) and Little All-American football tackle, this week visited his mother at the Soo. He will join the air corps at Detroit . . . has two brothers in the army . . . Clark Griffith, the white-haired and outspoken owner of the Senators, says the Indians have "too many dumb players" who are equipped with "a bad mental attitude" . . . Harry Grayson, NEA sports chieftain, writes that Griffith calls Hal Trosky, first sacker for the Indians, a "fumblebug," adding "I don't care if Trosky hit 1.000, a club can't win with a player like him at first base" . . . Herr Max Schmeling is wearing his Iron Cross these days . . . "Greasy" Neale, new coach of the Philadelphia Eagles pro eleven, is making ends out of McDonough and Cotton, backs, and a tackle out of Bob Sturgeon, fullback . . . Lou Novikoff's .408 for Milwaukee makes him the leading batter of the American association.

Now how about that swimming team you were going to organize boys? . . The city shuffleboard tournament is just around the corner. There'll be more about that as soon as the city tennis tournament is out of the way . . . Club championships at local golf clubs just ahead . . . After two years with unblemished records, Coach George Ruwitch's gridders are going to find the strain grows steadily greater as they prolong their win string. It's great stuff, winning all the time, but no doubt sighs of disappointment will mingle with those of relief when the Esky eleven is again out of the victory clouds.

LA COSSE LEADS LOCAL HITTERS

Third Baseman Clipping Ball At Very Neat .350 Average

Ed LaCosse, coach at Harris high school from September until June of each school year and hard-hitting third sacker for the Escanaba baseball club during the summer months, is leading the local team of the Michigan Rainbow League at the plate.

LaCosse is hitting a very respectable .350, while the Escanaba team as a unit is hitting a weakly .225. The chunky third baseman is leading the team in times at bat, 40; hits, 14, and stolen bases, eight. He is second only to Jack Griffin, second baseman, who has 10 runs to his credit, in scoring.

New Hitters

Maycunich, batting .333 in one game, and Nick Perle, hitting .571 over a two-game stretch, are up among the leaders on the local club, but neither has sufficient times at bat to warrant designation as the leading sticker.

The Escanaba batting averages (league games only), covering nine league games, follow:

Youngster Beats Typhoid Jinx

St. Louis, Aug. 7 (AP)—A near fatal attack of typhoid fever at the age of 12 started barrel-bodied Bill Smith, Jr., rookie star of Hawaii's defending champion National AAU swimming team, on the way to aquatic fame.

The 17-year-old high school senior from Maui Island has shattered three world marks in the last three months and promises to be the sensation of the AAU senior men's swimming and diving classic here this week-end.

Bill is half Hawaiian, son of a policeman, but a tousled crop of red, curly hair testifies to his being part Irish. That, from his father, also accounts for the American name Smith.

ESKYS ASKED TO JOIN GRID LOOP

Upper Michigan, Northern Wisconsin Football Circuit Planned

There will be a spot for Escanaba in the proposed Upper Michigan and Northern Wisconsin independent football league if gridders of this city manifest an interset in that organization.

If the U. M. and N. W. circuit is organized for play this fall, Ishpeming and Negaunee players will form one team. Marquette may enter a team, and if Escanaba enters the circuit, at least one other eleven will be added. Each team in the circuit would face each other outfit twice during the season, on a "home and home" basis.

Barbiere Plans Loop

Ed Barbiere, Ishpeming, who managed the 1939 Marquette county All-Stars, is the sponsor of the independent football movement. He will direct the organization of the Ishpeming and Negaunee eleven.

Former high school and college players of the Escanaba and Gladstone area interested in organization of the league should contact the sports editor of The Daily Press. A meeting for organization of the league may be called in the near future.

St. Louis Star Grabs Lead In Canadian Open

Tronto, Aug. 7, (AP)—Tom Draper, Jr., a big, amiable St. Louis amateur who "just happened to drop into Toronto on a holiday," fired a par-smashing 67 over the Lambton club course today to take the first-round lead in the Canadian open golf championship.

Only five others in the field of 120 Canadian and United States stars managed to beat par as a stiff southerly wind swept the upper reaches of the course and most of the players found the greens tricky. Scores of from 71 to 74 were commonest and some of the prominent pros went even higher.

Three Trail

Three United States professional aces wound up one stroke behind Draper. They were Horton Smith of Pinehurst, N. C., big Johnny Bulla of Chicago and Lloyd Mangrum of Monterey Park, Calif.

The other par beaters were Bobby Cruickshank, veteran Richmond, Va., pro, and Archie Skinner of St. Andrew's, N. B., the first Canadian among those seeking the title which has gone across the border for 26 years.

Defending Champion Sam Snead of Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., was one of seven players tied at 71, a stroke behind Gene Sarazen, colorful veteran from Tuckahoe, N. Y., W. A. (Red) Francis of Altoona, Pa., Bob Gray of Toronto, Vic Corbett of Owen Sound, Ont., and Gerald Proulx of Montreal.

Cuban Giants Will Play In Munising

Munising, August 7—The Havana Cuban Giants, colored baseball stars, and the Munising baseball nine will clash in a game at the municipal playgrounds diamond Thursday evening at 6:15, Orville Wieland, manager for the Munising squad announced today.

The game will be one of the most interesting tilts in which the locals have engaged this season, since the Giants are an outstanding colored squad. The team, playing exclusively in the east and southern states in 1940, won 105 games, losing only 21 and playing four ties.

DETROIT COACH

FELLER BEATEN BY DETROIT, 4-3

Clash Goes 13 Frames; Yankees In Slump and Lose Again

Cleveland, Aug. 7 (AP)—The Tigers trimmed Bob Feller today, 4 to 3, but it took them 13 innings and three hours and 40 minutes. Singles by Barney McCosky, Mike Higgins and Bruce Campbell accounted for the deciding run.

Soup Campbell's pinch-hit homer scored two other pinch hitters, Larry Rosenthal and Hal Trosky, ahead of him in the ninth to tie the score and signal the appearance of Schoolboy Rowe as a replacement for Johnny Gorsica.

Gorsica Hits

Gorsica had scored one of the Tigers' runs in the fifth. One of Feller's bases on balls came in the eighth with the bases full and forced in another. The Tigers added their third in the ninth on a single by McCosky and an error by Ray Mack.

Of Detroit's 13 hits, Gorsica accounted for four in four trips. Feller's strikeouts numbered 13.

Heber (Dick) Newsome, the rookie righthander who has become the Red Sox ace with 13 victories, muffled the Bombers to eight hits and gave Joe DiMaggio his 15th blanking of the year, although Joe got credit for driving in three of New York's runs.

Riggs Upset In Eastern Clay Courts Tourney

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 7 (AP)—A pair of major upsets—one a startling surprise and one that might have been foreseen, but wasn't—sent Wayne Sabin of Reno, Nev., and Bryan (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta into the semi-finals of the eastern clay court tennis championships today.

Sabin defeated top-seeded Bobby Riggs of Clinton, S. C. in straight sets, 8-6, 6-3, and Grant won even more decisively from Frank Parker of Spring Lake, N. J. The fifth-seeded player, 6-4, 6-2. Neither Sabin nor Grant was seeded for this tournament.

BOMBERS LAUGH AT TRADE RULE

Yankees Back In Saddle Again After One-Year Of Detroit Rule

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Aug. 7—(The Special News Service)—It's about time the American League was reconsidering its reconsideration of the rule barring trades by the champion, now that the Yankees are about to take back the pennant they loaned to Detroit last year.

The rule, about the most spiteful, discriminatory piece of legislation ever enacted, was adopted when the Yankees were champions and there seemed reason to believe they would continue to be champions unless they were disabled by a few low punches delivered around the council table.

Great was the consternation when the Detroit Tigers, a meek club which never did anyone any harm, won the pennant last year with a collection of fugitives from a rocking chair in the shade. It was apparent that the Tigers couldn't hold together another season without some fresh stitches where they were cracking at the seams, but the rule was in force, so it was a question of what to do, what to do.

To the Rescue

The national emergency, with its by-products of the draft and such, came to the rescue. With very straight faces the league owners solemnly voted to rescind the rule, announcing that inasmuch as the draft had made the player question uncertain, it would be a hardship to impose trading restrictions on any one club.

Now the pesky Yankees are at it again, and the club owners, if they want to take another sock at them, must declare that the national emergency has passed and the rule again will be put in force, or think up some new way to see that there would be no more milk for the kitten which again was growing too fat.

As for Ed Barrow and his Yankees, they can sit back in a corner and chuckle. It is doubtful if the rule ever did hurt them, except in the vague vicinity of their feelings. They, with their elaborate farm system, are about as self-sufficient a club as there is in baseball.

In fact, the rule was a taut rubber band which slipped off the wrong finger and snapped the league in the nose instead of hitting the Yanks in unarmored territory. The other clubs could have used a couple of those men who Barrow slipped out of the league on waivers.

Mother Of Two Wins On Links

Chicago, Aug. 7, (AP)—Mrs. Hayes Dansingburg, St. Paul, Minn., whose duties as mother of two children hold her tournament competition to one out-of-state event each season, made that program a successful one today by winning the women's western golf derby at Medinah Country club.

Mrs. Dansingburg finished the 72-hole medal play test with a total of 321 strokes, leading the field through every round. Her aggregate was 13 over par for a difficult layout lined with tree and water hazards. Mary Agnes Wall, Menominee, Mich., with a final round 79, took runnerup honors with a 326.

Veteran Ringmen Must Pass Exams

Detroit, Aug. 7, (AP)—An ambitious Detroit boxing promoter who has matched Battling Nelson and Johnny Coulon, two former titleholders, has approval of the bout provided the old-timers can pass the state's physical examination requirements.

Promoter Don Curley said he would match them in a three-round exhibition at Mack Park Aug. 20.

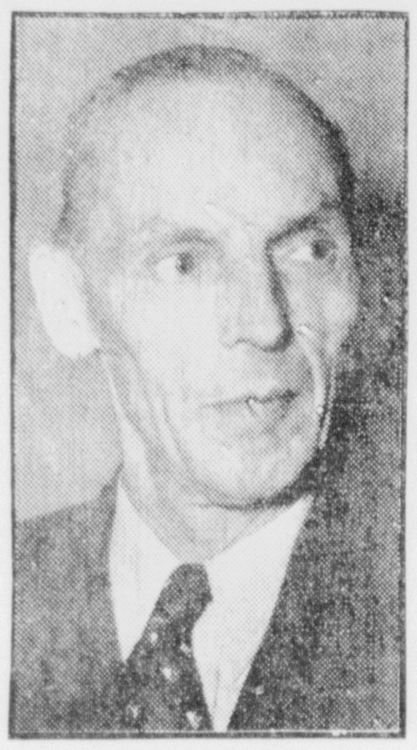
Long Lost Teeth Reclaimed

Brockton, Mass. (UP)—Thirteen years after losing her false teeth in a patrol wagon, a woman asked for them at police headquarters. Lieut. John J. Lyons found the set in a storeroom.

Ten in 18 Years

In every 18 years, there are about 10 total eclipses of the sun, but a total eclipse is visible in any one place only on an average of once in about 360 years. There is, however, no uniformity of interval.

Veteran Employe



E. J. BAWDEN

E. J. (Jack) Bawden, superintendent of the city service department, became an employe of the city 30 years ago this week.

Bawden, who lives at 303 South Eighth street, started working for the Peninsula Light and Power company in Houghton in 1900 and then worked in Negaunee and Ironwood until 1911 when he came to this city on August 5, to join the city electrical department.

At the time he came to Escanaba John Romer was head of the city utilities and A. J. Manley was treasurer. (Daily Press Photo)

Changes Are Made In Draft Papers

Draft board officials here said yesterday that a number of changes have been made in the selective service questionnaires now being sent out.

The questionnaires are more detailed and include more questions concerning the potential selectee's work preference, his experience and the states in which he has worked.

Cars Are Slightly Damaged In Mishap

Cars driven by Claude H. Edwards, Gulliver, and Joseph Coplan, 414 S. 9th street, were slightly damaged when they collided Wednesday afternoon at the intersection of South Tenth street and First avenue south.

Police officers said that Edwards failed to stop at the First avenue arterial. He was driving west on the avenue.

Flint To Honor Injured Tiger

Flint, Mich., Aug. 7, (AP)—Pat Mullin, injured Detroit Tiger outfielder, will receive the gift of a new automobile tomorrow when the American league club plays an exhibition game here with the Flint Indians of the Michigan state league.

Since Mullin was injured more than a month ago, Flint has staged a "pitch for Pat" campaign to raise funds for the presentation of suitable gifts to mark the occasion. The Mullin party will precede the game, which is scheduled at 5 p. m.

FOREST DEDICATED

Sault Ste. Marie—Tender tribute to the memory of Harry W. Everett, past president of the Kiwanis club and of the board of education of Sault Ste. Marie, was paid Tuesday evening by the Kiwanians and members of the board of education at a tree planting and program at the Harry W. Everett Memorial School Forest near Kinross.

A beautiful blue spruce, one of the favorite trees loved by the late Mr. Everett, was planted in his memory almost in front of the boulder cairn which faces US-2, less than 100 feet from that highway. Putting in the first shovelsful of earth around the roots of the tree were close friends of Mr. Everett—E. D. Pierce, D. R. Williams, James Moloney and others, under the supervision of J. W. Allaire.

LIKED THE LURE BOOK

Marquette, Mich.—Junito M. Beltran of the College of Arts and Sciences, Bagnio, Philippine Islands, has written as follows to the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau at Marquette:

"I have received your most interesting Lure Book, and to be frank with you, it is a great book which has inspired me with the desire to see your incomparable Michigan.

"I am about to make a tour of the United States and had intended to make New England my main destination. I have changed my mind, and Michigan, especially the Upper Peninsula, will be my primary objective. Believe me, I know I am going to enjoy my stay there.

"I understand this 1941 Lure Book is one of an annual series, and I will be glad to send the cost to you if I can have copies of the others for my library."

A bathing beauty contest will be staged during the afternoon, and a baby parade for tots under seven years. The Iron County federal band will play concert music.

Complete picnic facilities are available at the park. Attractive trophies, medals and cash awards will be given to contest winners. The event is sponsored by the City of Crystal Falls, and contests will be supervised by WPA recreational leaders. There will be no admission charges, and everybody is invited to come and have a good time.

BEER DEALERS ELECT

Iron Mountain—Alex M. Chalmers, of Chalmers and company, this city, was named president, and Peter Calcatera, of the Calcatera Distributing agency, also Iron Mountain, secretary-treasurer of the Dickinson County wholesale Beer Dealers' association at the organization meeting yesterday afternoon in the city council chambers here. The session opened at 3 p. m.

A principal objective of the new group, the officers explained, is the improvement of distribution service throughout the district, and to encourage legislation which will benefit both the dealer and consumer.

A. A. Mattson and W. A. Wackerley, of the Michigan state liquor control commission, outlined rules and regulations governing the beer and malt wholesale manufacture and distribution.

A Boston dramatic critic was barred from the theaters by producers and owners, so he had himself appointed deputy fire commissioner and gained admission on his badge.
